North Ohio Gets 14-Inch Snowfall

Storm Blamed For 6 Fatalities In Cleveland; Many Schools Shut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A spring storm which dumped up to 14 inches of snow in Northern Ohio was blamed today for six deaths in Greater Cleveland.

Schools were closed in many areas, industries were thrown off schedule by power failures and traffic tieups were numerous.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the snow, which started falling about noon Sunday, had piled to 14 inches on Cleveland's East Side Monday night. A six-inch accumulation was reported at Cleveland Hopkins Airport, which was closed to plane traffic.

Ten inches of snow was reported at Toledo. In the Central Ohio area Monday, rain changed to hail and finally to snow accompanied by thunder and lightning.

Columbus reported about two inches of snow but 23 miles to the south of the capital city, Circleville had virtually no white cover.

* * *

THE SNOWFALL tapered off in the Cleveland area early today and the forecast said the weather would be mostly cloudy and continued cold in the area today with a high of 40 degrees.

Ohio Highway Department crews were out in most of the state Monday night, spreading sand and salt and plowing away the snow in an attempt to keep highways open. A department spokesman said crews were encountering difficulty from drifting snow in the northern part of the state, especially in the Erie-Lorain-Huron county area where a snow depth of 14 inches was reported. Stiff winds off Lake Erie also added to the road - clearing difficulty.

Nine Greater Cleveland Suburban school districts cancelled classes today. Cleveland public schools and parochial schools in the city remained open, however.

Also reported closed were some schools in Geauga County, 28 schools in eight districts in Lorain County and the Mentor district schools in Lake County.

Classes were called off today at John Carroll and Western Reserve universities in Cleveland. However, medical and basic nursing students at Reserve will attend classes. Evening classes at Reserve and Case Tech were cancelled Monday night, but Case classes were scheduled to be in session today.

* * *

SCHOOLS ALSO were closed at Twinsburg, Northfield - Macedonia and Boxton in Summit County. Fremont public and parochial schools and practically all schools in Sandusky County were closed.

Power failures were numerous in the Cleveland area due to lines being broken by the snow or falling limbs. The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. had about 400 repairmen on duty Monday night in the fight to restore power. It was estimated that about 7,000 CEI customers—both homes and industrial plants—were without power.

The slush - filled streets and swirling snow slowed rush hour traffic to a snail's pace, causing numerous tieups. A trip from downtown Cleveland to the suburbs which normally takes 30 minutes or less was extended to three or four times that long.

Big Tankers Now Use Suez

20,000-Ton Class OKd By Egyptians

CAIRO (AP) — The two biggest tankers to use the Suez Canal since it was blocked last November entered the waterway at Port Said today — the first day the cleared channel was opened to ships of up to 20,000 tons.

One was the 19,418-ton Belgian tanker Elizabeth, the other the 20,776-ton Italian Fina Canada. They were bound for Middle East ports to pick up oil. Four other smaller ships were in the southbound convoy.

The first passenger vessel to move through the canal since the British, French, Israeli invasion was due at Port Said later today to begin the 103-mile trip south to Suez. The ship is the 12,839-ton Italian liner Oceania, headed for Australia with 809 passengers.

While whistles shrilled and hundreds of persons watched from the banks, U.N. salvage crews raised and towed away the sunken Egyptian frigate Abukir Monday. That cleared the channel for all shipping adapted to its 34-foot depth.

* * *

THE EGYPTIAN Suez Canal Authority gave no indication when capacity operation would be resumed. Before the canal was blocked, ships of about 40,000 tons could go through.

The only task left for the U.N. salvage crews headed by American Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler was repair of lighting, communications and navigational aids and work on one wreck outside the channel.

The canal was reopened gradually with removal of sunken ships, damaged bridges and other debris that clogged it after the British, French and Israeli attack five months ago. Prior to removal of the Abukir, passage had been restricted to ships of 10,000 tons.

Circleville City Council took similar action last week.

Hungary Ousts American Aide

BUDAPEST (AP) — Communist Hungary today accused Capt. Thomas R. Gleason, assistant U. S. military attache, of "open espionage" and gave him 48 hours to leave the country.

A spokesman for the U. S. legation said the charges against Gleason do not constitute espionage under international custom and were "largely inaccurate."

Gleason and Col. James C. Todd, U. S. military attache, were stopped on a Hungarian country road last Wednesday and questioned for more than five hours. They were accused of photographing a Russian-occupied barracks.

Senators In Disagreement On New Dulles Aid Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said today he will oppose any part of the administration's new foreign aid program that might lead to "a perpetuity of spending abroad."

A number of other senators, including Fulbright (D-Ark) and Capehart (R-Ind) applauded, however, a proposal to set up a fund to provide loans for economic development abroad and put all foreign aid on a long-range basis.

A major point in the new approach, as it was outlined by Secretary of State Dulles, is a lending program he said might reach as high as $750 million annually in the years ahead.

Tied in with this is the recommendation that funds for economic assistance be separated from appropriations for military arms aid and defense support for countries with which the United States has military defense agreements. The arms aid would be included in the appropriations bill for the Defense Department.

* * *

FULBRIGHT said authorization of these military aid and defense support funds should be placed under the jurisdiction of the Armed Services Committee.

He said its emphasis should be placed on loans for aiding underdeveloped countries to build roads, ports, irrigation, power and other projects that will enable them to become self-supporting.

But Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the Dulles program "looks far into the future."

"While I am in favor of making economic development assistance we authorized in the form of loans, I am not going to support anything that lends itself to making the foreign aid program a permanent affair," he said.

He raised a similar objection in questioning Dulles Monday, but Dulles said he thought private industry could take over the financing after a proper economic climate had been created.

Neither Dulles nor Deputy Secretary of Defense Reuben B. Robertson, could give full details of the revised program.

Moritz Is Named New Patrol Chief

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's new highway patrol superintendent will be Fred Moritz, 52, of Columbus.

Gov. C. William O'Neill today announced that the deputy superintendent for the last 24 years will take command June 1.

Moritz will succeed Col. George Mingle, who resigned to become city manager of Portsmouth. Mingle became superintendent after the death of Col. Lynn Black, first head of the patrol. Moritz helped Black select the first 60 men trained for patrol work in 1933.

Wild Spring Weather Now Diminishing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another outbreak of wild spring weather, tornadoes in the Southeast and heavy snow in Northeast, appeared diminishing today.

Colder, drier air headed into the storm-stricken areas of six Southeast states ripped by tornadoes Monday and Monday night. At least six persons, all in North Carolina, were killed.

More than 150 other persons were injured as the twisters skipped across the Carolinas and Virginia after first pounding Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

Property damage was not estimated but appeared to run into the millions of dollars.

Heaviest hit by the tornadoes, the third major storm of the early spring season, was along a 150-mile belt through northeastern South Carolina and into eastern North Carolina.

The violent weather erupted in a broad belt from parts of Alabama and Georgia northeastward into Virginia as a vigorous storm swept out of the Ohio Valley into the central Appalachians and headed toward the Atlantic.

Destructive winds, torrential rains and hail battered many areas in the southeast storm belt. Winds up to 75 m.p.h. battered the Bristol, Tenn., area and they were clocked at more than 60 m.p.h. in many places.

Norfolk, Va., was in the path of a twister which struck near sundown. The city was without power for one hour.

Reuther In Firm Command Of Big Auto Worker Union

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Walter P. Reuther appeared today to be in firm control of the United Auto Workers convention after winning overwhelming approval of everything he has proposed so far.

But the UAW president may encounter some opposition from a minority faction fighting his proposal to increase basic union dues of $2.50 to $3 a month.

The opposition developed Monday night at a caucus led by Carl Stellato, president of the 44,000-member Ford Rouge.

A long-time critic of Reuther, Stellato urged his followers to maneuver for a rollcall when the dues question comes up for a vote. But he said that would take 800 of the convention's 3,200 delegates and he wasn't optimistic.

Stellato said he opposed the dues increase "because none of it is going to the strike fund." He said the UAW's present $23 million strike fund should be increased to at least $100 million.

Reuther had everything his own way Monday.

An estimated 97 per cent of the delegates approved his plan setting up a public review board to act as a watchdog on union ethical practices. The board, made up of seven prominent citizens outside the union, also will share the authority with the convention as the ultimate appeal body for grievances of union members.

The convention accepted almost unanimously the selections of the union's executive board. Named on the review board were Msgr. George Higgins, Washington, D.C., Rabbi Morris Adler, Detroit; Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxman, Washington; Dr. Clark Kerr of the University of California; Dr. Edwin Witte of the University of Wisconsin; and Circuit Judge Wade H. McCree of Detroit.

Reuther said President Eisenhower's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower turned down an invitation to serve on the board because "of the pressure of many other duties." Dr. Eisenhower is president of John Hopkins University.

The seventh member to complete the board will be chosen by the UAW Executive Board from a list to be submitted by the six already named.

"Travel? No, sir," said Henry. "I've got a shop to look after."

News In Brief

Russia Studies New Arms Plan

LONDON (AP)—Russia has promised to give close study to a new U.S. disarmament proposal — a two-step plan which would ultimately freeze 25 per cent of the major powers' conventional arms in a common pool.

U.S. disarmament expert Harold Stassen broached the idea Monday before the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee discussing plans for arms reductions. Russia, the United States, Britain, France and Canada are the members.

Informed sources said Stassen told the closed session that, as a first step, the five nations should place 10 per cent of their non-nuclear weapons, ships and other military equipment under international control. This would go into effect one year after an agreement was signed and ratified.

A reduction to agreed manpower levels would be taken at the same time. All five nations have agreed to cut the levels to 2½ million for Russia and the United States and 750,000 for Britain and France.

If this step were carried out satisfactorily, Stassen said, the would then recommend to the U.S. government that it agree to retire another 15 per cent of its conventional arms.

Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin termed Stassen's proposal "very important" and promised to give it careful study.

Western observers described the session—99th since the subcommittee was formed in 1954—as the "best so far."

High Liquor Tax Cutting Disease?

BOSTON (AP) — Cirrhosis of the liver associated with alcoholism has "practically disappeared" in England, presumably because high taxes on booze there have cut liquor consumption, an American doctor says.

In contrast, said Dr. Robert M. Kark of the University of Illinois School of Medicine, "alcoholic" cirrhosis has more than doubled in the last 25 years in France and "remains high" in the U. S.

He offered those international statistics to support his contention that "a cheap and ready supply" of liquor is a major factor influencing the extent of alcoholism and ailments associated with it.

Women Prefer Fat To Being Drunk?

BOSTON (AP)—Dr. Seldon D. Bacon, director of the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies, told a symposium on alcoholism that women are less liable to drink than men.

"Women," he said, "are more likely to take out their unhappiness in chocolates and food. They'd rather get fat than drunk."

British Physician Is Freed By Jury

LONDON (AP) — Dr. John Bodkin Adams was acquitted today of a charge of murdering an 81-year-old widow to get a chest of antique silver and a Rolls Royce from her estate.

Atty. Gen. Sir Reginald Manningham - Buller immediately quashed a secret indictment accusing Adams of killing a second wealthy patient last summer.

Dr. Adams was allowed to walk out of the courtroom on bail but he still has minor charges hanging over him of violating the cremation act.

The jury of 10 men and 2 women deliberated only 44 minutes in acquitting the 58-year-old bachelor society doctor. The verdict ended a 17-day hearing in London's famed Old Bailey, the longest murder trial in British history.

Adams had been arrested after a prolonged Scotland Yard investigation into rumors that he had profited from the deaths of an unusual number of his wealthy aged patients in the seaside resort of Eastbourne.

* * *

THE 260-POUND physician had pleaded innocent to the crown's charge that he had pumped massive doses of heroin and morphine into 81-year-old Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell to turn her into a drug addict and finally to end her life in 1950.

Adams did not take the stand in his defense. Mrs. Morrell's body was cremated, and the verdict hinged largely on the conflicting testimony of medical experts for both sides.

The prosecution experts said the doctor's intent could only have been to end Mrs. Morrell's life.

A medica lexpert for the defense claimed the treatment was not unusual in such cases (the widow had suffered a stroke two years before) and that the treatment was intended only to ease her pain.

The attorney general said the quashed indictment concerned the death last summer of Mrs. Gertrude Hullett four months after her husband, a 71-year-old millionaire, died in Eastbourne.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hullett were patients of Dr. Adams. Her death was officially recorded as suicide from an overdose of drugs, but during the preliminary hearing that led to Dr. Adams' indictment in the Morrell case, the prosecution had blamed the doctor for the deaths of both Hulletts.

Mrs. Hullett left Dr. Adams another Rolls Royce in her will.

The doctor still is accused of certifying, when he obtained permission for Mrs. Morrell's cremation, that he knew of no financial gain accruing to him from her death.

Ohio River Due For Spill-Over

Area Below Portsmouth Braced For Flooding

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The rain-swollen Ohio River is expected to spill a little water over its banks from Portsmouth downriver in the next four days.

That's the forecast by the U.S. Weather Bureau early today after compiling the latest data from the upper Ohio River Valley.

A bureau spokesman said the further downriver the crest goes, the higher it will be above flood stages.

Upriver from Portsmouth, in the Marietta and Parkersburg area, is not expected to have crests above flood stages."

Here's the outlook:

Portsmouth—Crest at 50 feet, or right on flood stage, at midnight Wednesday.

Maysville, Ky.—Crest at 50½ feet Thursday evening, or a half-foot over flood stage.

Cincinnati—Crest Friday morning at 52½ feet, or a half-foot over flood stage.

The high water is expected to spill into Ohio lowlands with a minimum of damage.

* * *

PORTSMOUTH, although protected by a levee, started operating four pumps Monday night in the flood defense system to take care of sewer and surface water.

Scioto County officials said that the 50-foot stage would put water over some rural roads in both ends of the county and might isolate a few houses.

The Cincinnati Weather Bureau forecaster said that most of the storms that dropped large quantities of rain on the valley have moved out of the area.

Koch Will Spearhead County Easter Seal Fund Campaign

One of the county's most energetic civic leaders is heading the 1957 Easter Seal Campaign to help crippled children, the Rev. Fred Ketner, president of the Pickaway County Society, announced today.

He is Winfield S. Koch, superintendent of the Pickaway County Children's Home. Koch will spearhead the annual appeal as campaign chairman, leading efforts to maintain and promote greater services for the area's crippled.

Other key persons who will be working during the Easter Seal Campaign here were announced as follows:

Mrs. Charles A. Walker will serve as general chairman of the Easter Lily Parades which will be staged all over the county on April 13.

* * *

GEORGE McDowell, superintendent of county schools has been named chairman to promote the Easter Seal Program in the schools in Pickaway County. Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff will serve as coin container chairman.

As Special Events Chairman, Mrs. Harry Betz said that Coffee Day in Circleville is being planned for Thursday, April 18. Mrs. Dale Rough has been named publicity chairman.

By-laws of the National Society for Crippled Children, Koch said, state that the Society cannot enter into membership with other groups or organizations but will co-operate with local groups working for the welfare of the crippled and physically handicapped.

The local society has rendered much effective service this past year in our communities, purchasing braces, special shoes, hearing aids and providing medical services for several epileptic persons. It also provided skin graft operations and approximately 25 pairs glasses for needy children.

One of the major projects of the past year was the purchase of an audiometer and the procurment of a speech therapist.

This year's Easter Seal Campaign lies not with one person or committee, but the helping hand of all persons interested in the well being of crippled children. Help is spelled for crippled children when you give to Easter Seals, Rev. Ketner said.

Senators Study New York Area

Housing Developments Seen Core Of Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Committee dug deeper today into what Sen. Mundt (R-SD) called "crooked, under-the - table payoffs" to labor union officials by "crooked" employers in the New York City area.

Mundt, a committee member, reports that public hearings expected next month will show that "thousands of workmen" and the buyers of homes in two Long Island housing developments "all were gypped" by a sort of chain reaction in corruption.

Mundt's statements came on the heels of a vote by the committee ordering a start of contempt proceedings against Nunzio J. Squillante, a former garbage collection operator on Long Island.

Squilante, refusing to turn over subpoenaed financial records, declined Monday to tell the committee anything but his name and address. He invoked the Fifth Amendment on all other questions but refused to tell whether he honestly believed that answers might tend to incriminate him.

* * *

THF COMMITTEE called this "frivolous" use of the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination.

Chairman McClellan (D - Ark) withheld details of matters about which Squillante was questioned, except to say they involved labor-management relations.

Mundt said the committee has "clear-cut evidence" of payoffs that he said passed from "crooked employers to corrupt officials of some building trades unions" in New York.

As a result, he said, union members working for the employers were denied benefits which other employes obtained.

Home buyers also were cheated, Mundt said, because "there is evidence that someone got to some of the inspectors."

He declined to identify the housing projects, but said the inspectors "allowed a lot of shoddy workmanship to slip by.

"This could not have happened without the collaboration of crooked employers," he said.

Use Of Dogs For Medical Study Debated

COLUMBUS (AP) — The House Health Committee is studying a controversial bill to require dog pounds to sell unclaimed dogs to research organizations.

Proponents of the bill claim lack of an adequate source of dogs is seriously hampering medical research. They gave their testimony at a hearing last week.

Opponents of the bill will have an opportunity to present their views at a hearing today.

Under law, unclaimed animals may be destroyed after three days. The proposed bill would require pounds to hold unclaimed animals for six days, then turn them over to medical colleges and hospitals for $3 each.

Dr. Thomas Kinney, professor of pathology at Western Reserve University, speaking for the bill at the hearing last week, said, "We don't want anyone's pet. All we want are the dogs which would be destroyed anyhow."

Dr. Kinney denied charges by a committee member, Rep. George Hook (D-Brown), that dog thieves are "cleaning up" in illicit sales to universities. Hook claimed dog stealers in Ohio sell animals to out-of-state dog thieves sell theirs to Ohio universities and hospitals.

U.N., Israelis Eye Gaza Barrier

ASHKELON, Israel (AP) — Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the U.N. Emergency Force, and Israeli commanders met here today to discuss the possibility of building a mined barrier along the Gaza-Israeli border. Under consideration is the erection of two rows of barbed wire 30 feet apart, with the area between mined and lighted to discourage raiders from either side of the border.

Burns said he thought the "Egyptian reaction will be agreeable to what we propose."

Reuther had everything his own way Monday.

An estimated 97 per cent of the delegates approved his plan setting up a public review board to act as a watchdog on union ethical practices. The board, made up of seven prominent citizens outside the union, also will share the authority with the convention as the ultimate appeal body for grievances of union members.

The convention accepted almost unanimously the selections of the union's executive board. Named on the review board were Msgr. George Higgins, Washington, D.C., Rabbi Morris Adler, Detroit; Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxman, Washington; Dr. Clark Kerr of the University of California; Dr. Edwin Witte of the University of Wisconsin; and Circuit Judge Wade H. McCree of Detroit.

Reuther said President Eisenhower's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower turned down an invitation to serve on the board because "of the pressure of many other duties." Dr. Eisenhower is president of John Hopkins University.

The seventh member to complete the board will be chosen by the UAW Executive Board from a list to be submitted by the six already named.

Senators In Disagreement On New Dulles Aid Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said today he will oppose any part of the administration's new foreign aid program that might lead to "a perpetuity of spending abroad."

A number of other senators, including Fulbright (D-Ark) and Capehart (R-Ind) applauded, however, a proposal to set up a fund to provide loans for economic development abroad and put all foreign aid on a long-range basis.

A major point in the new approach, as it was outlined by Secretary of State Dulles, is a lending program he said might reach as high as $750 million annually in the years ahead.

Tied in with this is the recommendation that funds for economic assistance be separated from appropriations for military arms aid and defense support for countries with which the United States has military defense agreements. The arms aid would be included in the appropriations bill for the Defense Department.

* * *

FULBRIGHT said authorization of these military aid and defense support funds should be placed under the jurisdiction of the Armed Services Committee.

He said its emphasis should be placed on loans for aiding underdeveloped countries to build roads, ports, irrigation, power and other projects that will enable them to become self-supporting.

But Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the Dulles program "looks far into the future."

"While I am in favor of making economic development assistance we authorized in the form of loans, I am not going to support anything that lends itself to making the foreign aid program a permanent affair," he said.

He raised a similar objection in questioning Dulles Monday, but Dulles said he thought private industry could take over the financing after a proper economic climate had been created.

Neither Dulles nor Deputy Secretary of Defense Reuben B. Robertson, could give full details of the revised program.

Gov. C. William O'Neill today announced that the deputy superintendent for the last 24 years will take command June 1.

Moritz will succeed Col. George Mingle, who resigned to become city manager of Portsmouth. Mingle became superintendent after the death of Col. Lynn Black, first head of the patrol. Moritz helped Black select the first 60 men trained for patrol work in 1933.

Wild Spring Weather Now Diminishing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another outbreak of wild spring weather, tornadoes in the Southeast and heavy snow in Northeast, appeared diminishing today.

Colder, drier air headed into the storm-stricken areas of six Southeast states ripped by tornadoes Monday and Monday night. At least six persons, all in North Carolina, were killed.

More than 150 other persons were injured as the twisters skipped across the Carolinas and Virginia after first pounding Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

Property damage was not estimated but appeared to run into the millions of dollars.

Heaviest hit by the tornadoes, the third major storm of the early spring season, was along a 150-mile belt through northeastern South Carolina and into eastern North Carolina.

The violent weather erupted in a broad belt from parts of Alabama and Georgia northeastward into Virginia as a vigorous storm swept out of the Ohio Valley into the central Appalachians and headed toward the Atlantic.

Destructive winds, torrential rains and hail battered many areas in the southeast storm belt. Winds up to 75 m.p.h. battered the Bristol, Tenn., area and they were clocked at more than 60 m.p.h. in many places.

Norfolk, Va., was in the path of a twister which struck near sundown. The city was without power for one hour.

"Travel? No, sir," said Henry. "I've got a shop to look after."

News In Brief

Russia Studies New Arms Plan

LONDON (AP)—Russia has promised to give close study to a new U.S. disarmament proposal — a two-step plan which would ultimately freeze 25 per cent of the major powers' conventional arms in a common pool.

U.S. disarmament expert Harold Stassen broached the idea Monday before the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee discussing plans for arms reductions. Russia, the United States, Britain, France and Canada are the members.

Informed sources said Stassen told the closed session that, as a first step, the five nations should place 10 per cent of their nonnuclear weapons, ships and other military equipment under international control. This would go into effect one year after an agreement was signed and ratified.

A reduction to agreed manpower levels would be taken at the same time. All five nations have agreed to cut the levels to 2½ million for Russia and the United States and 750,000 for Britain and France.

If this step were carried out satisfactorily, Stassen said, the would then recommend to the U.S. government that it agree to retire another 15 per cent of its conventional arms.

Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin termed Stassen's proposal "very important" and promised to give it careful study.

Western observers described the session—99th since the subcommittee was formed in 1954—as the "best so far."

High Liquor Tax Cutting Disease?

BOSTON (AP) — Cirrhosis of the liver associated with alcoholism has "practically disappeared" in England, presumably because high taxes on booze there have cut liquor consumption, an American doctor says.

In contrast, said Dr. Robert M. Kark of the University of Illinois School of Medicine, "alcoholic" cirrhosis has more than doubled in the last 25 years in France and "remains high" in the U. S.

He offered those international statistics to support his contention that "a cheap and ready supply" of liquor is a major factor influencing the extent of alcoholism and ailments associated with it.

Women Prefer Fat To Being Drunk?

BOSTON (AP)—Dr. Seldon D. Bacon, director of the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies, told a symposium on alcoholism that women are less liable to drink than men.

"Women," he said, "are more likely to take out their unhappiness in chocolates and food. They'd rather get fat than drunk."

British Physician Is Freed By Jury

LONDON (AP) — Dr. John Bodkin Adams was acquitted today of a charge of murdering an 81-year-old widow to get a chest of antique silver and a Rolls Royce from her estate.

Atty. Gen. Sir Reginald Manningham - Buller immediately quashed a secret indictment accusing Adams of killing a second wealthy patient last summer.

Dr. Adams was allowed to walk out of the courtroom on bail but he still has minor charges hanging over him of violating the cremation act.

The jury of 10 men and 2 women deliberated only 44 minutes in acquitting the 58-year-old bachelor society doctor. The verdict ended a 17-day hearing in London's famed Old Bailey, the longest murder trial in British history.

Adams had been arrested after a prolonged Scotland Yard investigation into rumors that he had profited from the deaths of an unusual number of his wealthy aged patients in the seaside resort of Eastbourne.

* * *

THE 260-POUND physician had pleaded innocent to the crown's charge that he had pumped massive doses of heroin and morphine into 81-year-old Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell to turn her into a drug addict and finally to end her life in 1950.

Adams did not take the stand in his defense. Mrs. Morrell's body was cremated, and the verdict hinged largely on the conflicting testimony of medical experts for both sides.

The prosecution experts said the doctor's intent could only have been to end Mrs. Morrell's life.

A medica lexpert for the defense claimed the treatment was not unusual in such cases (the widow had suffered a stroke two years before) and that the treatment was intended only to ease her pain.

The attorney general said the quashed indictment concerned the death last summer of Mrs. Gertrude Hullett four months after her husband, a 71-year-old millionaire, died in Eastbourne.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hullett were patients of Dr. Adams. Her death was officially recorded as suicide from an overdose of drugs, but during the preliminary hearing that led to Dr. Adams' indictment in the Morrell case, the prosecution had blamed the doctor for the deaths of both Hulletts.

Mrs. Hullett left Dr. Adams another Rolls Royce in her will.

The doctor still is accused of certifying, when he obtained permission for Mrs. Morrell's cremation, that he knew of no financial gain accruing to him from her death.

Ohio River Due For Spill-Over

Area Below Portsmouth Braced For Flooding

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The rain-swollen Ohio River is expected to spill a little water over its banks from Portsmouth downriver in the next four days.

That's the forecast by the U.S. Weather Bureau early today after compiling the latest data from the upper Ohio River Valley.

A bureau spokesman said the further downriver the crest goes, the higher it will be above flood stages.

Upriver from Portsmouth, in the Marietta and Parkersburg area, is not expected to have crests above flood stages."

Here's the outlook:

Portsmouth—Crest at 50 feet, or right on flood stage, at midnight Wednesday.

Maysville, Ky.—Crest at 50¼ feet Thursday evening, or a half-foot over flood stage.

Cincinnati—Crest Friday morning at 52½ feet, or a half-foot over flood stage.

The high water is expected to spill into Ohio lowlands with a minimum of damage.

* * *

PORTSMOUTH, although protected by a levee, started operating four pumps Monday night in the flood defense system to take care of sewer and surface water.

Scioto County officials said that the 50-foot stage would put water over some rural roads in both ends of the county and might isolate a few houses.

The Cincinnati Weather Bureau forecaster said that most of the storms that dropped large quantities of rain on the valley have moved out of the area.

Koch Will Spearhead County Easter Seal Fund Campaign

One of the county's most energetic civic leaders is heading the 1957 Easter Seal Campaign to help crippled children, the Rev. Fred Ketner, president of the Pickaway County Society, announced today.

He is Winfield S. Koch, superintendent of the Pickaway County Children's Home. Koch will spearhead the annual appeal as campaign chairman, leading efforts to maintain and promote greater services for the area's crippled.

Other key persons who will be working during the Easter Seal Campaign here were announced as follows:

Mrs. Charles A. Walker will serve as general chairman of the Easter Lily Parades which will be staged all over the county on April 13.

* * *

GEORGE McDowell, superintendent of county schools has been named chairman to promote the Easter Seal Program in the schools in Pickaway County. Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff will serve as coin container chairman.

As Special Events Chairman, Mrs. Harry Betz said that Coffee Day in Circleville is being planned for Thursday, April 18. Mrs. Dale Rough has been named publicity chairman.

By-laws of the National Society for Crippled Children, Koch said, state that the Society cannot enter into membership with other groups or organizations but will co-operate with local groups working for the welfare of the crippled and physically handicapped.

The local society has rendered much effective service this past year in our communities, purchasing braces, special shoes, hearing aids and providing medical services for several epileptic persons. It also provided skin graft operations and approximately 25 pairs glasses for needy children.

One of the major projects of the past year was the purchase of an audiometer and the procurment of a speech therapist.

This year's Easter Seal Campaign lies not with one person or committee, but the helping hand of all persons interested in the well being of crippled children. Help is spelled for crippled children when you give to Easter Seals, Rev. Ketner said.

Senators Study New York Area

Housing Developments Seen Core Of Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Committee dug deeper today into what Sen. Mundt (R-SD) called "crooked, under-the - table payoffs" to labor union officials by "crooked" employers in the New York City area.

Mundt, a committee member, reports that public hearings expected next month will show that "thousands of workmen" and the buyers of homes in two Long Island housing developments "all were gypped" by a sort of chain reaction in corruption.

Mundt's statements came on the heels of a vote by the committee ordering a start of contempt proceedings against Nunzio J. Squillante, a former garbage collection operator on Long Island.

Squilante, refusing to turn over subpoenaed financial records, declined Monday to tell the committee anything but his name and address. He invoked the Fifth Amendment on all other questions but refused to tell whether he honestly believed that answers might tend to incriminate him.

* * *

THF COMMITTEE called this "frivolous" use of the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination.

Chairman McClellan (D - Ark) withheld details of matters about which Squillante was questioned, except to say they involved labor-management relations.

Mundt said the committee has "clear-cut evidence" of payoffs that he said passed from "crooked employers to corrupt officials of some building trades unions" in New York.

As a result, he said, union members working for the employers were denied benefits which other employes obtained.

Home buyers also were cheated, Mundt said, because "there is evidence that someone got to some of the inspectors."

He declined to identify the housing projects, but said the inspectors "allowed a lot of shoddy workmanship to slip by.

"This could not have happened without the collaboration of crooked employers," he said.

Use Of Dogs For Medical Study Debated

COLUMBUS (AP) — The House Health Committee is studying a controversial bill to require dog pounds to sell unclaimed dogs to research organizations.

Proponents of the bill claim lack of an adequate source of dogs is seriously hampering medical research. They gave their testimony at a hearing last week.

Opponents of the bill will have an opportunity to present their views at a hearing today.

Under law, unclaimed animals may be destroyed after three days. The proposed bill would require pounds to hold unclaimed animals for six days, then turn them over to medical colleges and hospitals for $3 each.

Dr. Thomas Kinney, professor of pathology at Western Reserve University, speaking for the bill at the hearing last week, said, "We don't want anyone's pet. All we want are the dogs which would be destroyed anyhow."

Dr. Kinney denied charges by a committee member, Rep. George Hook (D-Brown), that dog thieves are "cleaning up" in illicit sales to universities. Hook claimed dog stealers in Ohio sell animals to out-of-state dog thieves sell theirs to Ohio universities and hospitals.

U.N., Israelis Eye Gaza Barrier

ASHKELON, Israel (AP) — Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the U.N. Emergency Force, and Israeli commanders met here today to discuss the possibility of building a mined barrier along the Gaza-Israeli border. Under consideration is the erection of two rows of barbed wire 30 feet apart, with the area between mined and lighted to discourage raiders from either side of the border.

Burns said he thought the "Egyptian reaction will be agreeable to what we propose."

Traffic Light Demolished In Auto Mishap

One of Circleville's traffic signals and its brace pole were demolished late yesterday by a driver attempting to stop for a red light.

City police report that a car driven by Richard Lee Young, 21, of 299 E. High St. skidded over a curb at the intersection of S. Court and Walnut and crashed into a brace pole of the light overhanging the intersection.

The impact of the crash knocked the pole over onto a fence and the overhead traffic light fell into the street. Young was not hurt in the mishap which occurred about 8:45 p. m.

The 21 year-old driver told police that, proceeding south on S. Court, he looked up as he approached the intersection and saw that the traffic signal was red. He put on his brakes but skidded over the curb hitting the brace pole.

Dewey Speakman, city service director, said that the traffic signal was probably beyond repair. He estimated the cost of a new light at $400.

Traffic Light Demolished In Auto Mishap

One of Circleville's traffic signals and its brace pole were demolished late yesterday by a driver attempting to stop for a red light.

City police report that a car driven by Richard Lee Young, 21, of 299 E. High St. skidded over a curb at the intersection of S. Court and Walnut and crashed into a brace pole of the light overhanging the intersection.

The impact of the crash knocked the pole over onto a fence and the overhead traffic light fell into the street. Young was not hurt in the mishap which occurred about 8:45 p. m.

The 21 year-old driver told police that, proceeding south on S. Court, he looked up as he approached the intersection and saw that the traffic signal was red. He put on his brakes but skidded over the curb hitting the brace pole.

Dewey Speakman, city service director, said that the traffic signal was probably beyond repair. He estimated the cost of a new light at $400.

No Compromise Is Sighted On State Pay-Cut Measure

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Last-ditch hopes of Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill's Cabinet officers have crumbled. Their salaries are going to be cut.

Despite strong sentiment in the Ohio House for "middle-ground" salaries for members of the governor's official family, House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan) tells newsmen:

"The governor is positive in his conviction we ought to return to the previous salary level."

O'Neill asked for the pay increases in January to help him hire "competent" department directors. He asked for virtual repeal of the salary increase bill a week ago today.

Told by Cloud of O'Neill's "positive" stand that the salaries ought to be cut to Jan. 1 levels, a House caucus Monday night voted to accept "as is" a pay cut bill passed by the Senate Friday.

House Democrats huddled at the same time and voted to try for approval of the same amendments which failed in the Senate—and to attempt to cut the $30,000-a-year salary of the highway director, and others. They said they are seeking to "lay a foundation for a 20 per cent pay increase for run-of-the-mill state employes."

Last January, before he was inaugurated, O'Neill insisted that salaries of departmental directors ought to be increased. The Legislature obliged in less than 24 hours after its session opened.

Directors who were making $10,000 a year were increased, generally, to $16,000 and those who were being paid $12,000 were boosted to $18,000.

After a period of soul-searching, a month or more in the process, O'Neill told legislators their "mental reservations" on the pay increase were well - founded, that the salary increases he had demanded were too high.

He proposed that all salaries be returned to the old level with the exception of the highway director, the director of mental hygiene—down from the new $25,000 salary, but still up $6,000 from the old salary—and the Ohio Public Utilities Commission, unchanged at $16,000.

The Senate passed O'Neill's turnabout salary bill unchanged after a slam-bang battle. After House Republicans got the "word" Monday night, they agreed to go along.

The House had been scheduled to vote on the big money bill of the session today, but, because of a printing delay, put the decision off until tomorrow. The measure is the record $1,151,000,000 appropriations bill to operate the state government in the two-year period beginning July 1.

There were, however, two major bills called up today:

1. A House vote on a Senate-approved measure to permit the hiring of outside negotiators to buy rights-of-way for highways on the interstate system. This is a bill backed by the O'Neill administration to speed up the giant highway program in the next few years.

2. A Senate vote on a bill to set up the mechanics of distributing state bond issue funds for classroom construction in hard-pressed districts.

The Legislature began its 14th work week Monday night.

The House passed, 102-12, and sent to the Senate a bill to provide for licensing and regulation of debt-pooling companies by local ordinance.

The Senate sent to the House a bill to permit 75 per cent of a school district's votes to petition for merger of all or part of their school district with an adjoining district.

Prosperity From Seaway To Be Costly, Ohioan Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Ohioans are predicting a new prosperity for their state once the St.Lawrence Seaway is open.

The farmer believes stepped up trade through the Great Lakes will mean better prices for his produce. The industrialist envisions expansion.

But an Ohio congressman, Rep. Cleff Clevenger (R), expressed strongly dissenting views in a recent exchange with Maritime Administrator Clarence G. Morse.

Clevenger said many people are forgetting that for the first time the government will be actively subsidizing shipping on the Great Lakes.

This will be necessary, he said, to enable U.S. shipping operators to compete with foreign vessels manned by low paid crews and built with low paid help.

"Do you agree with me on that?" the white-haired Clevenger asked Morse at a hearing before a House Appropriations subcommittee.

"We are (going to have subsidies)," Morse replied.

"And that matter will become increasingly hot as the thing (the seaway) approaches completion?" Clevenger pressed.

"Yes, sir," Morse replied.

The subsidy costs to the taxpayer are not Clevenger's sole concern in connection with the seaway. Another problem, he said, is big spending by this government to prepare for the seaway. He continued:

"We are going to have, perhaps, close to two billion dollars worth of dredging in channel deepening and harbor improvements on the lakes before we are through.

"And it is not going to mean, in my opinion, lower freight rates at all for the American shipper or the Canadian shipper.

"It is going to open up what was formerly a pretty fancy piece of freight, that belonged to the Canadians and Americans, to the ships of the world.

"Japan will be in it as soon as they can get squared around and get in. That is due to get bigger and bigger and our people are going to carry the cost of all of these schemes for port facilities and new dredging."

As Clevenger sees it, the result will be to "cripple" the railroads and the taxpayers without added benefits necessarily coming to the Great Lakes states.

In short, as he put it, it will be another battle of the Great Lakes.

To all this, Morse listened for the most part in silence. But he said: "Well, it is a problem to us because of the increased subsidy bill that faces us."

Civil Rights Foes Win New Delays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern opponents of the Eisenhower administration's civil rights proposals won further delay Monday in both branches of Congress.

They gained at least another week in the Senate when the Judiciary Committee managed to muster only seven of its members, one short of the legal minimum needed to do business. That put off action until next week.

On the House side the Rules Committee adjourned without action to bring the bill up in the House. The probable effect was to rule out any chance of a vote in that branch until the latter half of the session.

Faithful Dog Almost Costs Boy His Life

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A small boy's faithful dog who growled off would-be rescuers almost cost his master's life Sunday as the youngster lay unconscious on trolley tracks.

Patrolmen Alexander Anthony and Samuel Mostardi found 3-year-old David Hagenbuch on the tracks of the high-speed interurban trolley line.

The dog, a big German shepherd, growled as they tried to approach. The policemen turned and raced along the tracks in time to flag an approaching trolley, which reaches speeds of 80 m.p.h.

They finally got the dog to move by waving their clubs at him. The youngster was taken to a hospital for treatment of face scratches and a bump on the head suffered when he slipped and fell while walking along the tracks.

Lausche Cool On Pending Farm-Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) says he doubts the wisdom of a farm-aid bill now pending in Congress because of "the precedent it will create."

The bill, authorizing payments to livestock growers in drought areas who cut down on their grazing lands or reduce the size of their herds, passed the Senate Monday. It goes to the House for action in the Agriculture Committee.

"If we give aid to the cattlemen," Lausche said, "how can we deny it to the miner, the quarry owner and others who suffer disaster"

Lausche said the measure "establishes the principle that whenever a disaster strikes, the federal government will give aid to those who suffer from it."

Actor Says Many U.S. Men Like Sheep On New Fashions

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Men are becoming sheep — just like women—in the field of fashion."

This bold statement comes from George Nader, the handsome, wavyhaired actor. Ordinarily, the guy has impressed me as a fairly cautious type. But now he emits a comment destined to antagonize both the sexes. And that just about covers everybody.

The whole thing came up when his studio suggested that George get a crewcut for his role in "The Dark Shore."

"I play an engineer in the picture so they thought I would look more natural in a crewcut," he explained. "Ridiculous! Do all engineers wear crewcuts? Of course not.

"What's more, I deplore the large number of men who are adopting crewcuts because so many others are doing it. Some have their hair cut short to hide bald spots or make themselves look younger. Why don't they just be natural instead of following the crowd. If your hair looks better cut short, do it — but not because it's the stylish thing to do."

That stared him on a tirade against the Ivy League styles for men, which are all the rage these days. He spoke of the unpadded shoulders, the tiny lapels, the bold-stripped shirts with extra button on the back of the collar, the charcoal and other drab colors.

"I get a kick out of all the actors jumping on the bandwagon with the Ivy League styles," George said. "The fact is that there's only one guy who looks good in them. That's Cary Grant. The others look terrible.

"Most men don't have the figures for Ivy League clothes. They are designed for boys, not men. But now men are abandoning their independence and following the fashions blindly. They end up like the women—all looking alike and most of them looking pretty bad."

If he's anti-Ivy League, Nader also takes a strong stand against the soiled t-shirt school of dress that has been fashionable in Hollywood.

"That's equally an affectation," he declared. "There's nothing quite so repulsive as a slovenly character who doesn't look clean. When I'm at home, I like to wear a sport shirt with denims and jeans. But whenever I'm out someplace where I'm appearing as a movie performer I want to look as well-groomed as I can."

Shackelford Case To Be Appealed

NEWARK (AP) — The Fifth District Court of Appeals will hear an appeal Friday from convicted slayer Harold E. Shackelford, 32. Appellate Judge C. B. McClintock of Canton Monday granted Shackelford a 60-day stay from his April 24 execution date.

Shackelford was found guilty without jury recommendation of mercy in the slaying Sept. 16 of Miss Mary Dunn of Newark.

U.S., Arabia OK New Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has announced formal agreement with Saudi Arabia for U. S. forces to use the Dhahran air field for five more years.

In exchange, the United States agreed to:

1. Continue selling Saudi Arabia military equipment so it can expand its 13,000 men armed force.

2. Improve the civil air facilities at Dhahran and improve the nearby Persian Gulf port of Damman.

However, U. S. officials said they were unable to get Saudi agreement to lift its ban against permitting Americans of the Jewish faith to serve with U. S. military advisory groups at Dhahran.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Men are becoming sheep — just like women—in the field of fashion."

This bold statement comes from George Nader, the handsome, wavyhaired actor. Ordinarily, the guy has impressed me as a fairly cautious type. But now he emits a comment destined to antagonize both the sexes. And that just about covers everybody.

The whole thing came up when his studio suggested that George get a crewcut for his role in "The Dark Shore."

"I play an engineer in the picture so they thought I would look more natural in a crewcut," he explained. "Ridiculous! Do all engineers wear crewcuts? Of course not.

"What's more, I deplore the large number of men who are adopting crewcuts because so many others are doing it. Some have their hair cut short to hide bald spots or make themselves look younger. Why don't they just be natural instead of following the crowd. If your hair looks better cut short, do it — but not because it's the stylish thing to do."

That stared him on a tirade against the Ivy League styles for men, which are all the rage these days. He spoke of the unpadded shoulders, the tiny lapels, the bold-stripped shirts with extra button on the back of the collar, the charcoal and other drab colors.

"I get a kick out of all the actors jumping on the bandwagon with the Ivy League styles," George said. "The fact is that there's only one guy who looks good in them. That's Cary Grant. The others look terrible.

"Most men don't have the figures for Ivy League clothes. They are designed for boys, not men. But now men are abandoning their independence and following the fashions blindly. They end up like the women—all looking alike and most of them looking pretty bad."

If he's anti-Ivy League, Nader also takes a strong stand against the soiled t-shirt school of dress that has been fashionable in Hollywood.

"That's equally an affectation," he declared. "There's nothing quite so repulsive as a slovenly character who doesn't look clean. When I'm at home, I like to wear a sport shirt with denims and jeans. But whenever I'm out someplace where I'm appearing as a movie performer I want to look as well-groomed as I can."

Shackelford Case To Be Appealed

NEWARK (AP) — The Fifth District Court of Appeals will hear an appeal Friday from convicted slayer Harold E. Shackelford, 32. Appellate Judge C. B. McClintock of Canton Monday granted Shackelford a 60-day stay from his April 24 execution date.

Shackelford was found guilty without jury recommendation of mercy in the slaying Sept. 16 of Miss Mary Dunn of Newark.

U.S., Arabia OK New Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has announced formal agreement with Saudi Arabia for U. S. forces to use the Dhahran air field for five more years.

In exchange, the United States agreed to:

1. Continue selling Saudi Arabia military equipment so it can expand its 13,000 men armed force.

2. Improve the civil air facilities at Dhahran and improve the nearby Persian Gulf port of Damman.

However, U. S. officials said they were unable to get Saudi agreement to lift its ban against permitting Americans of the Jewish faith to serve with U. S. military advisory groups at Dhahran.

History Lives In New Adventure

A descendant of Christopher Columbus plans to retrace his forebear's route to the New World this year in replicas of the famed Nina, Pinta and Santa Maria.

He is the Duke of Veragua, a Spaniard who will be sailing under the auspices of the government of the Dominican Republic. He is scheduled to arrive at the island republic from Spain on Columbus Day, October 12. That will be just in time to open the republic's 1957 Winter tourist season.

This is the second such voyage across the Atlantic contemplated this season. Also in the works is a sailing of the Mayflower II from Plymouth, England, to Plymouth, Mass., to retrace the course of the Pilgrims in 1620.

The Duke of Veragua, a lieutenant in the Spanish navy, is now overseeing the building of exact reproductions of the three caravels. They will set sail from Palos, Spain, later this year.

Although Columbus first landed in the New World at an obscure Caribbean islet called Watling Island, the navigator's ship later ran aground on the northern shore of an island he named Santo Domingo.

The first settlement of Europeans in the Western Hemisphere was made on this island, which has now become the Dominican Republic.

Efforts such as the sailing of replicas of Columbus' vessels and the Mayflower make history come alive from the bookshelf and prove the spirit of adventure is not dead.

The Quiet Man Proves Popular

With the transfer of Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles to be deputy to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, it is assumed in Washington that he will soon succeed his chief. So ready an assumption is a tribute to the capacity and character of the man.

He is not only the popular choice but also the favorite of the Pentagon bureaucracy, which has studied him at close range.

What is most remarkable is that within four years, anyone of the Quarles type should so impress the government and people with his superior qualities.

For Quarles violates all of the modern rules for climbing the ladder of political success. He is modest, soft-spoken, and publicity-shy almost to a fault. His few intimates describe him as the most unobtrusive man in Washington. When he chairs a conference, he says less than anyone present, but his few words are invariably to the point.

Quarles was first brought into government to direct research and development in the Defense Department because of his experience as a top-flight scientist. It was discovered quickly that he is also a highly efficient administrator, an expediter of work, a maker of clean-cut decisions and a foe of empire-building.

In dealing with the Pentagon professionals, he disclaims any first-hand knowledge of their command problems. They at first wonder why he talks perfectly in tune with them, then later discover that he was an artillery cpatain in the first AEF.

In Europe, No Backseat Driving

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Europe is a strange continent where men are still so ruggedly independent they won't stand for backseat driving.

"A husband there would not let his wife tell him how to drive," said Gilberte Thirion, a pretty sprout from Brussels who at 29 is Europe' stop feminine auto racing star.

"He is the boss in the car, as well as in the home.

"I am amazed to see so many women behind the wheel in this country. The man sits beside her like a small baby.

"In Europe if you see a man and a woman in the car, it is almost always the man who is at the wheel. He would not trust her to drive."

Miss Thirion, who has won 20 of the 60 races she has participated in during the last five years, came here for the international races at Sebring, Fla., last month. She and her co-driver, Mrs. Nadege Ferrier of Switzerland, piloted a Renault Dauphine and finished first in their small car category.

"I compete mostly against men," said the tawny - haired Belgian mademoiselle, who was named by her small nation as its top sports performer of 1956.

Trimly built (she is one meter 70 centimeters tall and weighs about 60 kilos), she showed the stamina last year to win Italy's famed "Mille Miglia" race by outpacing 600 competitors through a 15-hour stretch at the wheel.

She first learned to pilot an old Army jeep and was trained in racing technique by her father, Max, a veteran racer himself. In a good year she picks up about $7,500 in prize money.

Her racing costume consists of a custom tailored jacket, men's trousers and a crash helmet.

"My pants are blue," she added.

A perfectionist, she sometimes spends three weeks or more preparing for an open road race. Although European racing is notably dangerous to spectators as well as drivers, she has been hurt only once. In 1953 she broke a wrist during a collision in Italy.

Television From A Sick Bed

By George Sokolsky

It never fell to my lot to see much of television or listen often to radio until I became ill when I was given one of those portable television machines which take up little space. So I have become acquainted with what is on the airwaves at different hours of day and night.

Not having seen too many movies in my fairly long life, I find the various late shows and late late shows novel and even interesting, but I do resent the introduction of sung advertising, particularly as the words are usually stupid and the music a vile corruption of tunes in the public domain.

I find the "$64,000 Question," the "$64,000 Challenge," "21" and the Edgar Bergen show interesting because I try to answer the questions to see whether my memory holds up, particularly in the field of useless information. Charles Van Doren and Robert Strom, the latter being 10 years old, have added culture and intellectual honesty to these shows. Some of the memorizers are nothing more than that, reminding me of a fellow I knew who was an immigration service interpreter and could use dozens of languages but who barely earned a living because he only had a memory but no common sense.

It would be interesting if a psychologist would give some of the memory questions an intelligence twist, which means asking why this is so and could not be otherwise. Both Van Doren and Strom have met that challenge. When Vivien Kellems was on the "$64,000 Question," I thought she answered correctly; there was a fracas on the stage and Miss Kellems was not permitted to go forward. I telephoned to the producer of the show and he promised to send me a transcript so that I might study the questions and answers. No transcript ever arrived. It was a stupid oversight. I questioned Miss Kellems and found that the show in which she participated was not altogether unrehearsed and that there was some prior discussion as to the limits of the questions.

Radio still has the virtue of hearing the voice but not seeing the face. Some faces are better not seen. The constant repetition of small news items from the press services is a bore. Original news rarely is gathered on radio. Anybody can read an item from a wire service such as the Associated Press, the United Press or the International News Service. Well edited newspapers give the source of such material and the radio should do the same. Those who read this copy are hired for their voices.

The American Broadcasting Company is famous for its controvesial broadcasts. It has made itself attractive to commentators who feel that they have something to say and who usually develop a following of devoted listeners who either love or hate them. Although these commentators are not paid fabulously, A.B.C. is attractive because it does not interfere with the content of the material and therefore the commentators do more work than is usual as free men like to work in intellectual freedom. Also A.B.C. rarely cancels out time to make room for some triviality called a spectacular. When they do that, they usually hear from the offended commentators' followings.

Should A.B.C. change this policy, its radio will become as dull as the unopinionated copy of its competitors taken from the wire services. Radio is still the better medium for speech and for ideas and it is likely to remain that because television is of the theater not the forum. Unfortunately the female advertisers have invaded radio with the jingles and jangles but on radio one does not have to see them which is an advantage.

Surely, one need not see water swirling in a washer to know that the business of a washing machine is to wash something. As to what kind of a cosmetic a girl has to use to catch a man, the less said about it the more attractive to the girl. If I were a young man, after watching television, I would imagine that every girl wears a false face and tricky hair and even at my age, I prefer that half of the girl's hair that does not stay in place to the other half of her hair which looks like something made for a plastic robot. At any rate, watching the television commercials adds nothing to the romantic outlook on life.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WHEN GEORGE FUERMANN, of Houston, tells a tale about Texas, one must presume it's authentic. One of his reports concerns a rancher who took a big sackful of silver dollars into a bank and said, "I want to deposit this; adds up to $65,000." "It will take us at least two hours to count it," said the teller. "Okay," said the rancher, "I'll be back after lunch."

When he returned with his wife, the teller said, "I'm sorry, sir, but we've counted those silver dollars five times, and each time we only get $60,000."

"Dawgone, what did I tell you?" grumbled the rancher to his wife. "We brought the wrong sack!"

Watch Out For Colds During Month Of April

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHILE March traditionally is the month for fevers, April is the month for colds. Americans will suffer an estimated 100,000,000 colds before the end of the month when the cold season finally slackens.

Cause Not Known

Yet, with all the cold victims around us—nine out of ten persons have at least one cold during the winter months—we still don't know exactly what causes them.

Generally, it's believed that colds are caused by viruses which attack your body when your resistance has been lowered by cold weather or some other condition.

For a while we had hopes of perfecting a vaccine which would knock out a cold. You know, something similar to the Salk antipolio vaccine. But it doesn't appear feasible now.

A cold itself provides only brief immunity from future colds. A vaccine could not be expected to do much better.

Besides, colds probably are caused by a large number of different viruses, not just one specific kind. Therefore, to be really effective, a vaccine would have to provide immunity from all of them. This seems to be virtually impossible.

Some doctors say the recently introduced bioflavonoids—I've discussed these previously—appear to offer some help in fighting off colds. In some cases, they have reportedly brought relief.

Still, it looks like the aches and pains, the rummy noses and the sneezes of the common cold will be around for a long time.

Answer: Injection treatment of hernia is sometimes successful.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's programs might have a better chance in Congress if he stuck out his jaw more. Unless he asserts strong leadership in his second term, he's apt to be run over.

Congress is in a whittling, independent mood. Further, as a last-term president, Eisenhower naturally stands to lose some influence with Congress, even among his own Republicans.

But, so far as can be seen, he's doing pretty much what he did at the beginning of his first term. Then he seemed to think — and was criticized for it—that his job was simply to make recommendations to Congress without any hard follow-through.

This year he offered programs in keeping with what he called the New Republicanism. At his Nov. 14 news conference, the first after his re-election, he was asked how he intended to assert leadership for his modern Republicans. He replied:

"I am not one of the desk-pounding type that likes to stick out his jaw and look like he is bossing the show . . . I would rather try to persuade a man to go along."

But some of his most important programs now either are under attack, even by Republicans, or appear to be headed nowhere. There even appears to be lack of coordination — or leadership — within his own administration.

For example: The confusion over his budget. At first he seemed to be inviting Congress to reduce it. They got this straightened out and Eisenhower got firmer on his figures.

Then Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, talked of cutting the budget three billion dollars. Last week Eisenhower came out against a cut of as much as two billion. And on the same day Treasury Undersecretary Randolph Burgess said he thought it would be fine if the budget could be cut two to three billion dollars.

There's hardly any doubt the budget will be slashed, with Eisenhower's Republicans joining Democrats to do it. And his four-billion-dollar foreign aid program, one of his most important, seems headed for some of the heaviest axing.

Eisenhower asked for money for federal aid to education. It's chances now look slim. And his civil rights program doesn't look like a good bet to pass either.

The President called in congressional leaders to suggest a constitutional amendment for clarifying the take-over by a vice president when a president is disabled. That one is dead already.

About the only two important things Eisenhower has won from Congress so far are approval for his Middle East program — after many weeks of delay — and continuance of the excise and corporation taxes at their higher Korean War levels.

Eisenhower may not want to stick his chin out, but Congress this year shows a willingness to belt it even when he keeps it close to his chest.

I discovered this excellent Droodle drawn on the Cloak Room Wall over at the Birdland Bop Palace the other night when I was checking my Beret. I was surprised because most of the "cats" around there don't dig Mr. Welk and his Champagne Music. To find out the reason for this I took a survey among the customers. Here are the answers I got to the questions: "What is your opinion of Lawrence Welk and his Champagne Music?": No. 1. "Lawrence who?? No. 2. "He don't swing, Man, he don't swing!" No. 3. "Get offa' my Blue Suede shoes!" No. 4. Who are you, Daddyo, the Inquiring Square?" No. 5. "Very weak in the Bongo Section!" No. 6. "Real Cubesville, Pops!" Well, you can draw your own conclusions to this Poll. Frankly I enjoy Lawrence's music—Bubbles and all.

I questioned Miss Kellems and found that the show in which she participated was not altogether unrehearsed and that there was some prior discussion as to the limits of the questions.

Radio still has the virtue of hearing the voice but not seeing the face. Some faces are better not seen. The constant repetition of small news items from the press services is a bore. Original news rarely is gathered on radio. Anybody can read an item from a wire service such as the Associated Press, the United Press or the International News Service. Well edited newspapers give the source of such material and the radio should do the same. Those who read this copy are hired for their voices.

The American Broadcasting Company is famous for its controvesial broadcasts. It has made itself attractive to commentators who feel that they have something to say and who usually develop a following of devoted listeners who either love or hate them. Although these commentators are not paid fabulously, A.B.C. is attractive because it does not interfere with the content of the material and therefore the commentators do more work than is usual as free men like to work in intellectual freedom. Also A.B.C. rarely cancels out time to make room for some triviality called a spectacular. When they do that, they usually hear from the offended commentators' followings.

Should A.B.C. change this policy, its radio will become as dull as the unopinionated copy of its competitors taken from the wire services. Radio is still the better medium for speech and for ideas and it is likely to remain that because television is of the theater not the forum. Unfortunately the female advertisers have invaded radio with the jingles and jangles but on radio one does not have to see them which is an advantage.

Surely, one need not see water swirling in a washer to know that the business of a washing machine is to wash something. As to what kind of a cosmetic a girl has to use to catch a man, the less said about it the more attractive to the girl. If I were a young man, after watching television, I would imagine that every girl wears a false face and tricky hair and even at my age, I prefer that half of the girl's hair that does not stay in place to the other half of her hair which looks like something made for a plastic robot. At any rate, watching the television commercials adds nothing to the romantic outlook on life.

Try and Stop Me

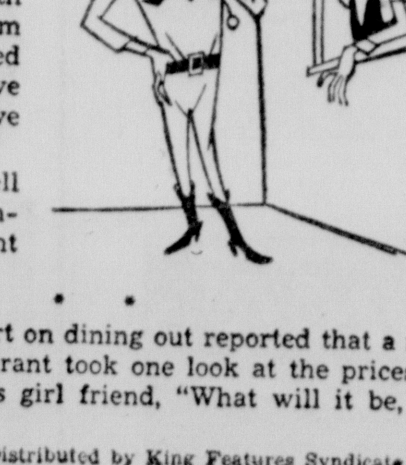
WHEN GEORGE FUERMANN, of Houston, tells a tale about Texas, one must presume it's authentic. One of his reports concerns a rancher who took a big sackful of silver dollars into a bank and said, "I want to deposit this; adds up to $65,000." "It will take us at least two hours to count it," said the teller. "Okay," said the rancher, "I'll be back after lunch."



When he returned with his wife, the teller said, "I'm sorry, sir, but we've counted those silver dollars five times, and each time we only get $60,000."

"Dawgone, what did I tell you?" grumbled the rancher to his wife. "We brought the wrong sack!"

Watch Out For Colds During Month Of April

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHILE March traditionally is the month for fevers, April is the month for colds. Americans will suffer an estimated 100,000,000 colds before the end of the month when the cold season finally slackens.

Cause Not Known

Yet, with all the cold victims around us—nine out of ten persons have at least one cold during the winter months—we still don't know exactly what causes them.

Generally, it's believed that colds are caused by viruses which attack your body when your resistance has been lowered by cold weather or some other condition.

For a while we had hopes of perfecting a vaccine which would knock out a cold. You know, something similar to the Salk antipolio vaccine. But it doesn't appear feasible now.

A cold itself provides only brief immunity from future colds. A vaccine could not be expected to do much better.

Besides, colds probably are caused by a large number of different viruses, not just one specific kind. Therefore, to be really effective, a vaccine would have to provide immunity from all of them. This seems to be virtually impossible.

Some doctors say the recently introduced bioflavonoids—I've discussed these previously—appear to offer some help in fighting off colds. In some cases, they have reportedly brought relief.

Still, it looks like the aches and pains, the rummy noses and the sneezes of the common cold will be around for a long time.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's programs might have a better chance in Congress if he stuck out his jaw more. Unless he asserts strong leadership in his second term, he's apt to be run over.

Congress is in a whittling, independent mood. Further, as a last-term president, Eisenhower naturally stands to lose some influence with Congress, even among his own Republicans.

But, so far as can be seen, he's doing pretty much what he did at the beginning of his first term. Then he seemed to think — and was criticized for it—that his job was simply to make recommendations to Congress without any hard follow-through.

This year he offered programs in keeping with what he called the New Republicanism. At his Nov. 14 news conference, the first after his re-election, he was asked how he intended to assert leadership for his modern Republicans. He replied:

"I am not one of the desk-pounding type that likes to stick out his jaw and look like he is bossing the show . . . I would rather try to persuade a man to go along."

But some of his most important programs now either are under attack, even by Republicans, or appear to be headed nowhere. There even appears to be lack of coordination — or leadership — within his own administration.

For example: The confusion over his budget. At first he seemed to be inviting Congress to reduce it. They got this straightened out and Eisenhower got firmer on his figures.

Then Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, talked of cutting the budget three billion dollars. Last week Eisenhower came out against a cut of as much as two billion. And on the same day Treasury Undersecretary Randolph Burgess said he thought it would be fine if the budget could be cut two to three billion dollars.

There's hardly any doubt the budget will be slashed, with Eisenhower's Republicans joining Democrats to do it. And his four-billion-dollar foreign aid program, one of his most important, seems headed for some of the heaviest axing.

Eisenhower asked for money for federal aid to education. It's chances now look slim. And his civil rights program doesn't look like a good bet to pass either.

The President called in congressional leaders to suggest a constitutional amendment for clarifying the take-over by a vice president when a president is disabled. That one is dead already.

About the only two important things Eisenhower has won from Congress so far are approval for his Middle East program — after many weeks of delay — and continuance of the excise and corporation taxes at their higher Korean War levels.

Eisenhower may not want to stick his chin out, but Congress this year shows a willingness to belt it even when he keeps it close to his chest.

"LAWRENCE WELK PLAYING CHAMPAGNE MUSIC IN A BEER BARREL"

I discovered this excellent Droodle drawn on the Cloak Room Wall over at the Birdland Bop Palace the other night when I was checking my Beret. I was surprised because most of the "cats" around there don't dig Mr. Welk and his Champagne Music. To find out the reason for this I took a survey among the customers. Here are the answers I got to the questions: "What is your opinion of Lawrence Welk and his Champagne Music?": No. 1. "Lawrence who?? No. 2. "He don't swing, Man, he don't swing!" No. 3. "Get offa' my Blue Suede shoes!" No. 4. Who are you, Daddyo, the Inquiring Square?" No. 5. "Very weak in the Bongo Section!" No. 6. "Real Cubesville, Pops!" Well, you can draw your own conclusions to this Poll. Frankly I enjoy Lawrence's music—Bubbles and all.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAP MARY HAWORTH: I am writing on behalf of my daughter, in the hope that you can suggest a solution of the problem.

Joyce (I'll call her) is being trailed by a classmate, a high school senior, in almost every move she makes. She is told that he has done the same to other girls throughout his high school years — giving them expensive gifts, and paying all sorts of attention to them.

The awful part is that Joyce can't stand the sight of him. He is almost ugly in appearance, the worst feature being his protruding teeth, braced with dark silver fixtures at present. Also he wears large, thick-lense glasses, which give him a bulge-eyed appearance; and he is much shorter than Joyce, who is quite tall.

How can we make him stop trailing her, walking her home (the high school is close by); and stopping in, now and then, with gifts. Joyce dropped a word about her grandmother's birthday and he even sent HER a birthday card!

We hate to insult him outright about his looks, as he is in several classes with Joyce and I suppose they do come in contact casually. We've tried our best not to dislike him too much, as it takes all kinds to make a world—but he has become an uncontrolled pest.

B. K.

DEAR B. K.: It is hard to believe that Joyce fully shares your feelings in this matter; for I believe if she did, she would automatically rout the boy's advances, by the natural reflex of her distaste.

Unless of course she has been so overly-supervised by parents, all her life, that she has lost contact with her real being — hence lacks spontaneous honesty, vigor and personal effectiveness, in fending off undesirable social pressures.

Possibly Joyce isn't accustomed to having beaus; and perhaps this lad is one of the few, or perhaps the first, to take notice of her. Thus possibly her emotions are unhappily mixed in dealing with him. Maybe she does half-abhor, yet half-encourage him — feeling, uncertainly, that almost any attentions are preferable to none, in the field of boy-girl experience, during teen years.

I gather if the lad were six feet two, with handsome teeth and didn't wear glasses, you'd suffer no distress about his trailing Joyce and giving her presents. At least that's the impression your letter makes—for you offer no criticism of his character, his family, his social connections, his record in school, etc., all of which would shed light on the person he is.

As for what to do: I think wise parents would try to fathom Joyce's inner attitudes and basic handicaps in the situation. Also they would try to get really acquainted with the boy's nature, if he insists on hanging around. Then if proof emerges that he is indeed a pest, harassing Joyce with unwanted court that she is too polite to repel—due to her habitual subservience to "stronger" minds—they should use common sense to freeze him out. But don't make his looks the issue!

'Baby Moon' To Tune In Tiny Meteors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "baby moon" earth satellite will tune in on very tiny meteors as it whizzes through space some 200 to 1,500 miles from the earth, the American Rocket Society was told

Four small microphones will be attached to the shell of the 20-inch sphere and these will be linked with a "micrometeor counter", one of the instruments carried inside the shell.

Researcher Robert C. Baumann of the Naval Research Laboratory gave this information to the closing session of the society's spring meeting.

Presumably the sound of the meteors, about the size of grains of sand, as they whiz past the 21½-pound "moon", or conceivably even strike the face of the microphones, will be recorded to give scientists an idea of the number of these objects in space.

He described these and other instruments to be carried by the tiny moonlet, which will require a 72-foot-long rocket vehicle weighing 10 tons to launch it into its orbit.

He said that the earth itself "appears uninhabited" in pictures taken by a Navy Viking rocket at an altitude of 147 miles.

"Is it safe to state after looking at a similar photo of another planet, even the moon, that there are no inhabitants, no civilization" he asked.

"The human race has just begun to scratch the surface of the unknown universe. Perhaps this small 20-inch diameter sphere, will open the entirely unexplored reaches of space."

Missile To Probe Mystery 'Flares'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A missile named "Dan" — actually a guided missile with a rocket hitchhiker—will be used in a new attempt to probe one of nature's greatest mysteries, solar "flares."

A team of Naval Research Laboratory researchers has disclosed that 14 such missiles will be fired during 1957.

The Navy team reported to the American Rocket Society that the Dan missiles will be ready to try for new information on the "flares" which sometimes interfere with radio reception, cause sparking on telegraph wires and create a general disturbance of the earth's magnetic field.

Centre College's President Quits

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Dr. Walter A. Groves, president of Centre College since 1947, announced his resignation Monday but declined to give any reason.

The 59-year-old educator, an ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church, said his resignation was mailed to Ike Lanier, Cincinnati, chairman of the board of trustees. It will become effective at a "date mutually agreeable" to Groves and the board.

A native of Pennsylvania, Groves is a graduate of both Princeton and Princeton Theological Seminary. He formerly taught at Centre College and Louisville Presbyterian Seminary.

Spanish Cardinal Dies At Age 76

MADRID (AP) — Pedro Cardinal Seguray Saenz, long a storm center in the Roman Catholic Church and former primate of Spain, died Monday after a long illness. He was an outspoken foe of democracy, the Franco government and Protestantism.

The 76-year-old cardinal had been ill with a kidney disorder and circulatory trouble.

A stern advocate of absolute monarchy, the prelate's clashes with Franco caused the Vatican to relieve him of his administrative functions in Sevilla two years ago.

Youngstown Calls Probe On Bombings

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill and the FBI have been invited by Mayor Frank X. Kryzan to send representatives to a meeting of district mayors and law enforcement officials April 16 to study several unsolved bombings here.

There have been 45 explosions in six years, the most recent last week.

State Board Of Education Sees Need Of More Money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education may have to cut down on its activity during the next two years unless the Ohio Legislature comes through with more money, says the board's vice president.

If the Legislature cannot find the money to pay for the board's programs in the 1957-58 biennium, Elliott E. Meyers of Youngstown said its meeting Monday night, "we will be faced with the dilemma of either running all the program on a scale to make it useless, or determining which of our fields of endeavor to bypass while we do a respectable job on others."

Meyers said he was "alarmed" at what he said is a trend in the Legislature to give the board more duties without giving the necessary additional money.

One bill pending gives the board the responsibility of re-districting areas for the state, Meyers said. Another would require the board to complete "preliminary guidance" on all school construction projects using state money, he added.

"I have no complaint with any of these bills until they are placed along side of House bill 475 containing the department budget," Meyers said. "It makes no provision for expanded duties, services, personnel and corresponding costs."

Meyers and Robert A. Manchester, Youngstown, board president, said the board needs money for a research division within the Education Department; additional supervision in the field to enforce regulations that have been adopted to meet requirements of past legislation; and assistant superintendents of public instruction to give direction to the board's programs.

Los Angeles Terrorists Wins New Supreme Court Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has granted a hearing of Caryl Chessman, Los Angeles sex terrorist who has fought for almost nine years to escape execution.

Convicted May 22, 1948 as a "lovers' lane" rapist, Chessman has held off death in San Quentin's gas chamber by a series of a varied legal moves in state and federal courts.

Eight times previously the Supreme Court rejected pleas by Chessman for a new trial. On Oct. 17, 1955, the high tribunal did direct that he be given a hearing in federal court in California on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Today's grant of a hearing by the high court itself was made over the opposition of Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown of California. In a brief filed with the Supreme Court, Brown said Chessman's petition is one of the most scurrilous and misleading petitions or briefs ever to come to the attention of" the State of California.

The tribunal said it would hear argument by Chessman's counsel on May 13. The order added the hearing would be limited to this question:

Whether in the circumstances of the case the state court proceedings to settle the dispute over the trial transcript resulted in denying Chessman due process of law under the U. S. Constitution.

Throughout his long legal battle, Chessman—a self-tutored law student — has emphasized a contention that the record of his trial was spurious." He said the transcript was prepared by an incompetent reporter.

While confined to San Quentin, Chessman wrote extensively of his experiences and his first book—'Cell 2455, Death Row" — attracted wide attention.

His latest appeal was from the refusal of the U. S. Circuit Court in San Francisco to grant him a writ of habeas corpus which would have opened the way for a new trial.

Chessman was sentenced to death under California's Little Lindbergh Law," which makes kidnaping a capital offense if the person abducted suffers bodily harm.

His conviction was on 17 charges, including kidnaping, attempted rape, sex perversion, bodily harm, robbery and automobile theft. At the time of the conviction he was on parole from an 11-year-to-life term for robbery.

Cleveland Getting 21-Story Building

CLEVELAND (AP) — The newest addition to Cleveland's skyline will be a $15 million 21-story office and commercial building. Plans for the building were announced in New York by the Tishman Realty & Construction Co., Inc., which said Monday the structure is scheduled for completion by Sept. 1, 1958.

It will have a parking area with space for 750 automobiles on two subground levels and seven stories above the ground.

Management-Union 'Collision' Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Committee soon will open public hearings on alleged collusion between "dishonest management and dishonest unions" in the New York area construction industry.

This word came recently from Sen. Mundt (R-SD), a member of the committee which has been concentrating up to now on activities of Teamster Union officials. The committee is empowered to look into racketeering by both unions and management.

The hearings are in recess while the investigators check into a total of 20,000 complaints.

Redmon Statement Gets Judge's OK

CINCINNATI (AP)—A statement to police by Arthur Lee Redmon, 33, admitting he started an apartment house fire in which eight died, has been admitted as evidence in Redmon's murder trial.

Criminal Court Judge Carson Hoy ruled the statement admissible Monday after defense attorneys sought to bar it on grounds it was not a voluntary statement.

Mrs. Sweeney Dies

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Virginia Bell Sweeney, 53, wife of former Ohio Secretary of State Charles Sweeney, died in a hospital here Monday after several days' illness. Mrs. Sweeney was the sister of Ohio Supreme Court Judge James F. Bell.

OSU To Borrow $12 Million Fund

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University trustees have authorized borrowing of $12 million to finance the first phase of the long-range $60 million improvement program.

The trustees took the action in two steps. One provides for the public borrowing of $6 million through bonds. The other was borrowing in a like amount of $6 million from the U. S. Housing and Home Finance Agency at an interest of 2 per cent. The public borrowing will be used to finance construction of three new 11-story men's dormitories, and the other loan from the federal agency will be used to refinance existing indebtedness on present dormitories.

Maybe she does half-abhor, yet half-encourage him — feeling, uncertainly, that almost any attentions are preferable to none, in the field of boy-girl experience, during teen years.

I gather if the lad were six feet two, with handsome teeth and didn't wear glasses, you'd suffer no distress about his trailing Joyce and giving her presents. At least that's the impression your letter makes—for you offer no criticism of his character, his family, his social connections, his record in school, etc., all of which would shed light on the person he is.

As for what to do: I think wise parents would try to fathom Joyce's inner attitudes and basic handicaps in the situation. Also they would try to get really acquainted with the boy's nature, if he insists on hanging around. Then if proof emerges that he is indeed a pest, harassing Joyce with unwanted court that she is too polite to repel—due to her habitual subservience to "stronger" minds—they should use common sense to freeze him out. But don't make his looks the issue!

'Baby Moon' To Tune In Tiny Meteors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "baby moon" earth satellite will tune in on very tiny meteors as it whizzes through space some 200 to 1,500 miles from the earth, the American Rocket Society was told

Four small microphones will be attached to the shell of the 20-inch sphere and these will be linked with a "micrometeor counter", one of the instruments carried inside the shell.

Researcher Robert C. Baumann of the Naval Research Laboratory gave this information to the closing session of the society's spring meeting.

Presumably the sound of the meteors, about the size of grains of sand, as they whiz past the 21½-pound "moon", or conceivably even strike the face of the microphones, will be recorded to give scientists an idea of the number of these objects in space.

He described these and other instruments to be carried by the tiny moonlet, which will require a 72-foot-long rocket vehicle weighing 10 tons to launch it into its orbit.

He said that the earth itself "appears uninhabited" in pictures taken by a Navy Viking rocket at an altitude of 147 miles.

"Is it safe to state after looking at a similar photo of another planet, even the moon, that there are no inhabitants, no civilization" he asked.

"The human race has just begun to scratch the surface of the unknown universe. Perhaps this small 20-inch diameter sphere, will open the entirely unexplored reaches of space."

Missile To Probe Mystery 'Flares'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A missile named "Dan" — actually a guided missile with a rocket hitchhiker—will be used in a new attempt to probe one of nature's greatest mysteries, solar "flares."

A team of Naval Research Laboratory researchers has disclosed that 14 such missiles will be fired during 1957.

The Navy team reported to the American Rocket Society that the Dan missiles will be ready to try for new information on the "flares" which sometimes interfere with radio reception, cause sparking on telegraph wires and create a general disturbance of the earth's magnetic field.

State Board Of Education Sees Need Of More Money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education may have to cut down on its activity during the next two years unless the Ohio Legislature comes through with more money, says the board's vice president.

If the Legislature cannot find the money to pay for the board's programs in the 1957-58 biennium, Elliott E. Meyers of Youngstown said its meeting Monday night, "we will be faced with the dilemma of either running all the program on a scale to make it useless, or determining which of our fields of endeavor to bypass while we do a respectable job on others."

Meyers said he was "alarmed" at what he said is a trend in the Legislature to give the board more duties without giving the necessary additional money.

One bill pending gives the board the responsibility of re-districting areas for the state, Meyers said. Another would require the board to complete "preliminary guidance" on all school construction projects using state money, he added.

"I have no complaint with any of these bills until they are placed along side of House bill 475 containing the department budget," Meyers said. "It makes no provision for expanded duties, services, personnel and corresponding costs."

Meyers and Robert A. Manchester, Youngstown, board president, said the board needs money for a research division within the Education Department; additional supervision in the field to enforce regulations that have been adopted to meet requirements of past legislation; and assistant superintendents of public instruction to give direction to the board's programs.

Centre College's President Quits

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Dr. Walter A. Groves, president of Centre College since 1947, announced his resignation Monday but declined to give any reason.

The 59-year-old educator, an ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church, said his resignation was mailed to Ike Lanier, Cincinnati, chairman of the board of trustees. It will become effective at a "date mutually agreeable" to Groves and the board.

A native of Pennsylvania, Groves is a graduate of both Princeton and Princeton Theological Seminary. He formerly taught at Centre College and Louisville Presbyterian Seminary.

Spanish Cardinal Dies At Age 76

MADRID (AP) — Pedro Cardinal Seguray Saenz, long a storm center in the Roman Catholic Church and former primate of Spain, died Monday after a long illness. He was an outspoken foe of democracy, the Franco government and Protestantism.

The 76-year-old cardinal had been ill with a kidney disorder and circulatory trouble.

A stern advocate of absolute monarchy, the prelate's clashes with Franco caused the Vatican to relieve him of his administrative functions in Sevilla two years ago.

Youngstown Calls Probe On Bombings

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill and the FBI have been invited by Mayor Frank X. Kryzan to send representatives to a meeting of district mayors and law enforcement officials April 16 to study several unsolved bombings here.

There have been 45 explosions in six years, the most recent last week.

Los Angeles Terrorists Wins New Supreme Court Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has granted a hearing of Caryl Chessman, Los Angeles sex terrorist who has fought for almost nine years to escape execution.

Convicted May 22, 1948 as a "lovers' lane" rapist, Chessman has held off death in San Quentin's gas chamber by a series of a varied legal moves in state and federal courts.

Eight times previously the Supreme Court rejected pleas by Chessman for a new trial. On Oct. 17, 1955, the high tribunal did direct that he be given a hearing in federal court in California on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Today's grant of a hearing by the high court itself was made over the opposition of Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown of California. In a brief filed with the Supreme Court, Brown said Chessman's petition is one of the most scurrilous and misleading petitions or briefs ever to come to the attention of" the State of California.

The tribunal said it would hear argument by Chessman's counsel on May 13. The order added the hearing would be limited to this question:

Whether in the circumstances of the case the state court proceedings to settle the dispute over the trial transcript resulted in denying Chessman due process of law under the U. S. Constitution.

Throughout his long legal battle, Chessman—a self-tutored law student — has emphasized a contention that the record of his trial was spurious." He said the transcript was prepared by an incompetent reporter.

While confined to San Quentin, Chessman wrote extensively of his experiences and his first book—'Cell 2455, Death Row" — attracted wide attention.

His latest appeal was from the refusal of the U. S. Circuit Court in San Francisco to grant him a writ of habeas corpus which would have opened the way for a new trial.

Chessman was sentenced to death under California's Little Lindbergh Law," which makes kidnaping a capital offense if the person abducted suffers bodily harm.

His conviction was on 17 charges, including kidnaping, attempted rape, sex perversion, bodily harm, robbery and automobile theft. At the time of the conviction he was on parole from an 11-year-to-life term for robbery.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The newest addition to Cleveland's skyline will be a $15 million 21-story office and commercial building. Plans for the building were announced in New York by the Tishman Realty & Construction Co., Inc., which said Monday the structure is scheduled for completion by Sept. 1, 1958.

Management-Union 'Collision' Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Committee soon will open public hearings on alleged collusion between "dishonest management and dishonest unions" in the New York area construction industry.

This word came recently from Sen. Mundt (R-SD), a member of the committee which has been concentrating up to now on activities of Teamster Union officials. The committee is empowered to look into racketeering by both unions and management.

The hearings are in recess while the investigators check into a total of 20,000 complaints.

Redmon Statement Gets Judge's OK

CINCINNATI (AP)—A statement to police by Arthur Lee Redmon, 33, admitting he started an apartment house fire in which eight died, has been admitted as evidence in Redmon's murder trial.

Criminal Court Judge Carson Hoy ruled the statement admissible Monday after defense attorneys sought to bar it on grounds it was not a voluntary statement.

Mrs. Sweeney Dies

OSU To Borrow $12 Million Fund

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University trustees have authorized borrowing of $12 million to finance the first phase of the long-range $60 million improvement program.

The trustees took the action in two steps. One provides for the public borrowing of $6 million through bonds. The other was borrowing in a like amount of $6 million from the U. S. Housing and Home Finance Agency at an interest of 2 per cent. The public borrowing will be used to finance construction of three new 11-story men's dormitories, and the other loan from the federal agency will be used to refinance existing indebtedness on present dormitories.

They learn to form a club, conduct an organization, hold an office and create new ideas.

Members of the club brought paintings to the meeting and Miss Montelius judged them. Mrs. Morgan won first prize; Mrs. Merriman, second; Mrs. George Neff, third and Mrs. Roland Reinhard, fourth.

Election Of Officers Held By Child Culture League

Ruth Montelius Presents Talk

Election of officers was held at the monthly meeting of the Child Culture League, which was held recently in the home of Mrs. Annette Merriman. Co-hostess for the event was Marsh Winner.

Mrs. Kenneth Wolford was elected president; Mrs. Clarence Hancher, vice-president; Mrs. Lee Berry, secretary; Mrs. John Jenkins, treasurer and Mrs. Annette Merriman, co-secretary.

The business session was conducted by the outgoing president, Mrs. Leo Morgan. She announced that the CCL conference will be held April 27 at West Jefferson. All members are urged to attend. Mrs. John Woods was chosen by the club to be representative in the "Mrs. John Buckeye" contest, which will be held at the conference.

Mrs. Clarence Hancher introduced Miss Ruth Montelius, guest speaker for the evening. She is advisor of the Junior and Senior Art Leagues.

Miss Montelius stated that parents should be proud of the Junior Art League. The children make their own ideas and show their work twice a year in the community. The League not only teaches the children to paint, but is an outlet for their emotions, keeps them occupied and offers an opportunity to improve their talents. They learn to form a club, conduct an organization, hold an office and create new ideas.

Members of the club brought paintings to the meeting and Miss Montelius judged them. Mrs. Morgan won first prize; Mrs. Merriman, second; Mrs. George Neff, third and Mrs. Roland Reinhard, fourth.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostess.

AP Guesspert Picks Braves To Cop Flag

Strong Mound Staff Seen Giving Milwaukee Edge In National Loop

By JOE REICHLER
AP Baseball Expert

NEW YORK (AP)—The strongest pitching staff in the National League, a well-balanced power attack and a burning desire to atone for their frightful 1956 fall collapse should combine to bring the Milwaukee Braves their first championship.

It's not going to be easy. The Braves have weaknesses at second base, left field and in the bullpen. Position for position, they are not as set as either Brooklyn or Cincinnati. The feeling is, however, that Manager Fred Haney's Braves will outlast the Dodgers and Redlegs because:

1. There is a very good chance Milwaukee will complete a deal with New York for second baseman Red Schoendienst.
2. Brooklyn will badly miss retired Jackie Robinson.
3. Cincinnati hasn't been able to bolster its weak pitching staff.

No other club appears capable of offering any serious resistance. The St. Louis Cardinals have a better looking team than last year but they still have a grave problem in center field and are not too secure in other positions. Pittsburgh is another improved club, but the Pirates are shy on power and have only two reliable pitchers.

The Philadelphia Phillies have potent pitching but little else. The New York Giants, stripped by Uncle Sam of their young stars, are attempting to plug the vacancies to ease the strain a bit for Willie Mays. Chicago has Bob Scheffing, a new manager. Unfortuntely, he is not a playing manager.

How they'll finish in the National this year:

1. Milwaukee
2. Brooklyn
3. Cincinnati
4. St. Louis
5. Pittsburgh
6. Philadelphia
7. New York
8. Chicago

The Braves are standing pat with a team that tossed away the pennant last year and is going to find it hard to forget. But Haney is counting on Robinson's impugning remarks to light the much-needed fire. The boys are still seething over Jackie's off-the-cuff remarks that gay times and late hours were directly responsible for their pennant loss.

Haney, who is doing his best to keep the blaze red hot, is counting on several of his key men—Eddie Mathews, Del Crandall, Danny O'Connell and Bobby Thomson—doing a better job. He was no worries regarding Johnny Logan, the most underrated shortstop in in the league; Hank Aaron; Joe Adcock; and Bill Bruton.

He has tremendous pitching depth even though Warren Spahn, his 36-year-old ace, may not win 20. Bob Buhl, Lew Burdette, Gene Conley, Ray Crone, Taylor Phillips, Bob Trowbridge, Red Murff and maybe Juan Pizzaro bode ill for opposing batsmen.

There is a growing suspicion that this is the year when "old age" really will catch up with the Brooks.

The return from service of southpaw Johnny Podres and the development of youngsters Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax will help, but can Sal Managlie, 40; Roy Campanella, 36; PeeWee Reese, 37; and Carl Furillo, 35, keep up the pace?

Right now Cincinnati manager Birdie Tebbetts is concerned with the physical condition of sore-hipped Ted Kluszewski and sore-armed Frank Robinson. Should either of these two be sidelined for any length of time, the Reds' chances to pull an upset will all but vanish.

If the Cardinals had a standout center fielder, a stronger bench and assurance that Alvin Dark can play all season, they'd rate an outside chance to grab it all. St. Louis has good pitching, for a change, and more power. Stan Musial is having his greatest spring. Del Ennis has filled the No. 4 role well. Ken Boyer, Wally Moon, Hal Smith, Don Blasingame and Dark form a well - balanced attack.

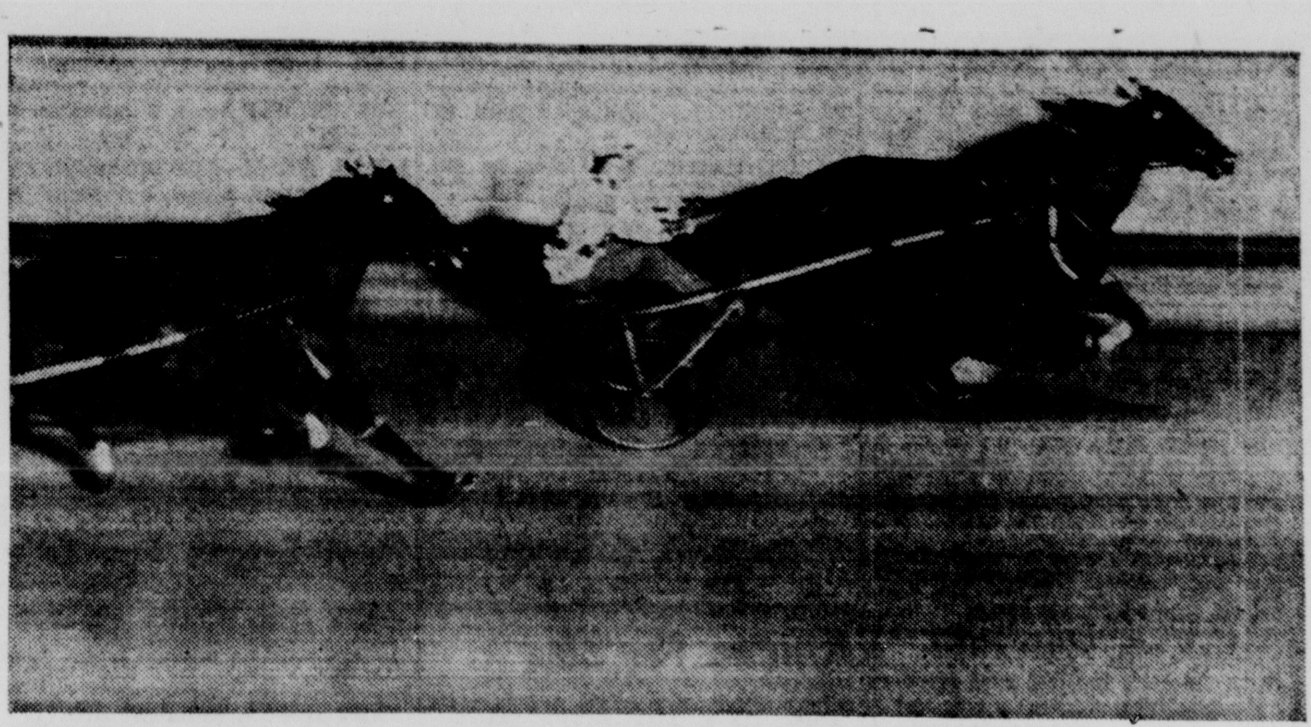
The Cubs look like the cellar dwellers of 1956 with the same problems. They have Ernie Banks to hit the ball for them but he isn't enough. Bob Rush is a pretty fair pitcher and two youngsters, Moe Drabowsky and Don Kaier, look like comers.

Tebbets Worries About Hit Slump

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts says he's worried about the hitting slump of his Cincinnati Redleg sluggers.

Tebbetts said Monday, "I am concerned slightly about this. The situation has brightened the last couple of games, but we're not out of this hitting slump."

Of the Redleg musclemen, catcher Ed Bailey is hitting best—.287. Big first sacker Ted Kluszewski has .256 average, outfielder Wally Post is hitting at a .247 clip, and Gus Bell at .241.



WATCH BOB, pictured above, with Jimmie Mace in the sulky, is one of the many fine horses entered in the Jaycee Harness Matinee scheduled for April 28 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. The 5-year-old pacer is owned by Arthur and Harley Mace. Proceeds from the annual matinee will go into a grandstand project fund which is being sponsored by local Jaycees.

Celtics Set For Tell-Tale Cage Battle

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics stand at the crossroads tonight in their National Basketball Assn. playoff game with St. Louis.

Boston never has had the lead in the best-of-seven series against the Hawks to date but has managed to rally twice. The teams are locked in a 2-2 standoff.

Bidding for their first championship in the 11-year history of the NBA, favored Boston must make its bid now.

If the Celts lose tonight in friendly Boston Garden, they would be prime candidates for elimination in St. Louis Thursday.

St. Louis can lose tonight and be in a favorable position to tie things up again at home.

Hometown fans hope that improvement in the play of backcourt ace Bob Cousy and rookie pivot sensation Bill Russell will assure a triumph.

The Hawks have been doing the unexpected so far in their determined bid to hustle their way to the top. When the Celtics demonstrated rebounding superiority, St. Louis has answered with great shooting. And when the Celts were shooting their best, the Hawks commanded the backboards.

Bob Pettit of St. Louis is the individual scoring leader with 111 points or a 27.75 average.

Baseball League Being Organized

The Southwestern Ohio Baseball League, composed of teams from this part of the state, needs two more teams to complete its pre-season organization.

Local baseball squads interested in joining the loop are asked to contact Pete Dennewitz, 428 Lillie St., Chillicothe. His phone number is PR-25263.

League games are played on Sunday afternoons on a home and home basis. The final pre-season organizational meeting will be held in the home of Tom Smalley, 1227 S. Main St., on April 28 at 8 p. m.

Ohio Still Top Foal State

10-Year Leadership Noted; Illinois Close

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio is still the nation's leading producer of harness horse foals but Illinois, anchored by rich state-sponsored colt stakes open only to homebred talent, is rapidly closing the gap.

The U. S. Trotting Association announced today that it has registered 670 Ohio-owned foals of 1956, enabling the Buckeye State to run its nation-leading streak to ten consecutive years. Illinois is second on the list with 527 foals.

The margin between the two leaders is narrowing however, since Ohio led in 1955 foals 693 to 481, and in 1954 foals 720 to 410.

New York moved up to third place on the national roster with 376 foals, displacing Indiana which slid to fifth place with 350. Pennsylvania, with 360 foals, climbed from fifth to fourth.

A three-year tabulation of the top ten states follows:

Foals of 1956: Ohio 670; Illinois 527; New York 376; Pennsylvania 360; Indiana 350; Michigan 195; Kentucky 165; California 103; Iowa 89; Virginia 77.

Foals of 1955: Ohio 693; Illinois 481; Indiana 396; New York 361; Pennsylvania 338; Kentucky 297; Michigan 211; California 146; Maryland 95; Iowa 91.

Foals of 1954: Ohio 720; Indiana 410; Illinois 408; New York 338; Pennsylvania 331; Kentucky 287; California 156; Michigan 147; Wisconsin 110; Virginia 90.

Aparicio Named As Chisox Leadoff

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Luis Aparicio, the American League's rookie of 1956, is going to be the Chicago White Sox' leadoff man.

Aparicio has developed the ability to wait out pitchers and as a result is getting more walks, a prime necessity for a leadoff man.

In the first 12 games this spring, Luis had a .429 reach-base average. That included 16 hits in 52 at bats for a .308 average, five walks, one hit by pitched ball and two errors.

From 1942 to 1946 Dartmouth set an intercollegiate hockey record by playing 46 straight games without suffering a defeat.

Notre Dame is Michigan State's oldest basketball rival. They first met in 1908 and have played 73 times.

Dupas Handed Decision In Martinez Tilt

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Foxy Jack Kearns, a shrewd judge of boxing in anybody's book, conceded today Ralph Dupas is "one of the best lightweights in the world," but disagreed with the decision giving the New Orleans dandy his victory over high - ranked welterweight Vince Martinez.

Kearns, who steered Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight title almost 40 years ago, was in Martinez' corner Monday night when the handsome Paterson, N. J., puncher finished second best to Dupas in ten rounds.

But the verdict met with the approval of the great majority of the 10,800 fans.

Martinez opened a deep gash in the corner of Dupas' left eye in the third round.

But Martinez failed to capitalize on the injury and allowed the 21-year-old Dupas, rated sixth among lightweight challengers, to regain his composure in the middle rounds. The quicker Dupas continually beat Martinez to the punch, with most of the attack centering on Martinez' midsection.

Both dished out punishment and each took some good shots in return. But Dupas' aggressiveness and cat-like reflexes paid off in swinging the nod over the 27-year-old New Jersey native.

Judge Lucian Jaubert voted four rounds for each man with two even, but had Dupas ahead on aggressiveness. Judge Phil Gaffney had Dupas ahead six rounds to three with one even and referee Pete Giaruso tabbed Dupas on top 5-4-1.

Gonzales-Parker Set For Match

CLEVELAND (AP)—A match between Pancho Gonzales and Frank Parker will headline six singles matches in the opening round of a three-day professional tennis tournament at Cleveland Arena tomorrow night. Ken Rosewall, latest addition to the pro ranks, will play the winner of the Bobby Riggs-Al Doyle match.

Winner of the Frank Kovacs-Joe Whelan match will be paired with Tony Trabert, former University of Cincinnati athlete.

Plans For Kid Baseball Season Discussed At Organization Meet

According to Charles Waple, recreation director at Ted Lewis Park, plans for the coming Kid baseball program are well underway here.

Initial planning was outlined at a managers meeting held Sunday afternoon in Circleville High School. At present the biggest problem at hand is getting enough managers to lead the many teams expected in this year's competition.

However, recreation director Waple remarked that he expects this problem will be solved by time the season is slated to open, providing more interested fans offer their services.

Much of the discussion at Sunday's meeting was centered around rules and regulations which will govern this year's play. Some of the rules set up are as follows:

* * *

IN GAMES played under the lights, balls which hit or go past light poles will be automatic doubles; in daylight contests, the hitter will be allowed to get as many bases as he can; no profane language will be allowed by players or managers—violation of this ruling will be grounds for forfeit.

No smoking will be allowed on the diamond; only players and managers will be permitted on the playing field during a game.

In the Mosquito League, five innings will be played, six innings will constitute a Little League game and Babe Ruth League contests will go seven innings. In case of rain or darkness, sufficient innings for a game will be: Mosquito League, three innings; Little and Babe Ruth leagues, four innings.

If games are called because of rain or darkness with the score deadlocked, the contests will be resumed at the point where stopped.

Waple and game umpires will decide whether or not the diamond is in suitable condition for all games.

Along with his call for additional managers, Waple expressed hope that at least one interested fan would volunteer to act as official scorekeeper for all games.

Cartier Hangs Up His Ring Gloves

NEW YORK (AP)—From now on Walter Cartier is strictly an actor.

The onetime middleweight contender hung up his gloves today, ending a brief fling in a double career of television acting and boxing.

Handsome Walter announced his retirement from the ring after suffering a deep cut over the right eye Monday night in losing on a third-round technical knockout to Jackie LaBua, East Meadow, N. Y., in a telecast bout.

The 33-year-old New Yorker, who portrays Pfc. Claud Dillingham in Phil Silvers' Sgt. Bilko television show, said, "I just don't have it."

AP Guesspert Picks Braves To Cop Flag

Strong Mound Staff Seen Giving Milwaukee Edge In National Loop

By JOE REICHLER
AP Baseball Expert

NEW YORK (AP)—The strongest pitching staff in the National League, a well-balanced power attack and a burning desire to atone for their frightful 1956 fall collapse should combine to bring the Milwaukee Braves their first championship.

It's not going to be easy. The Braves have weaknesses at second base, left field and in the bullpen. Position for position, they are not as set as either Brooklyn or Cincinnati. The feeling is, however, that Manager Fred Haney's Braves will outlast the Dodgers and Redlegs because:

1. There is a very good chance Milwaukee will complete a deal with New York for second baseman Red Schoendienst.
2. Brooklyn will badly miss retired Jackie Robinson.
3. Cincinnati hasn't been able to bolster its weak pitching staff.

No other club appears capable of offering any serious resistance. The St. Louis Cardinals have a better looking team than last year but they still have a grave problem in center field and are not too secure in other positions. Pittsburgh is another improved club, but the Pirates are shy on power and have only two reliable pitchers.

The Philadelphia Phillies have potent pitching but little else. The New York Giants, stripped by Uncle Sam of their young stars, are attempting to plug the vacancies to ease the strain a bit for Willie Mays. Chicago has Bob Scheffing, a new manager. Unfortuntely, he is not a playing manager.

How they'll finish in the National this year:

1. Milwaukee
2. Brooklyn
3. Cincinnati
4. St. Louis
5. Pittsburgh
6. Philadelphia
7. New York
8. Chicago

The Braves are standing pat with a team that tossed away the pennant last year and is going to find it hard to forget. But Haney is counting on Robinson's impugning remarks to light the much-needed fire. The boys are still seething over Jackie's off-the-cuff remarks that gay times and late hours were directly responsible for their pennant loss.

Haney, who is doing his best to keep the blaze red hot, is counting on several of his key men—Eddie Mathews, Del Crandall, Danny O'Connell and Bobby Thomson—doing a better job. He was no worries regarding Johnny Logan, the most underrated shortstop in the league; Hank Aaron; Joe Adcock; and Bill Bruton.

He has tremendous pitching depth even though Warren Spahn, his 36-year-old ace, may not win 20. Bob Buhl, Lew Burdette, Gene Conley, Ray Crone, Taylor Phillips, Bob Trowbridge, Red Murff and maybe Juan Pizzaro bode ill for opposing batsmen.

There is a growing suspicion that this is the year when "old age" really will catch up with the Brooks.

The return from service of southpaw Johnny Podres and the development of youngsters Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax will help, but can Sal Managlie, 40; Roy Campanella, 36; PeeWee Reese, 37; and Carl Furillo, 35, keep up the pace?

Right now Cincinnati manager Birdie Tebbetts is concerned with the physical condition of sore-hipped Ted Kluszewski and sore-armed Frank Robinson. Should either of these two be sidelined for any length of time, the Reds' chances to pull an upset will all but vanish.

If the Cardinals had a standout center fielder, a stronger bench and assurance that Alvin Dark can play all season, they'd rate an outside chance to grab it all. St. Louis has good pitching, for a change, and more power. Stan Musial is having his greatest spring. Del Ennis has filled the No. 4 role well. Ken Boyer, Wally Moon, Hal Smith, Don Blasingame and Dark form a well-balanced attack.

The Cubs look like the cellar dwellers of 1956 with the same problems. They have Ernie Banks to hit the ball for them but he isn't enough. Bob Rush is a pretty fair pitcher and two youngsters, Moe Drabowsky and Don Kaier, look like comers.

Tebbets Worries About Hit Slump

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts says he's worried about the hitting slump of his Cincinnati Redleg sluggers.

Tebbetts said Monday, "I am concerned slightly about this. The situation has brightened the last couple of games, but we're not out of this hitting slump."

Of the Redleg musclemen, catcher Ed Bailey is hitting best—.287. Big first sacker Ted Kluszewski has .256 average, outfielder Wally Post is hitting at a .247 clip, and Gus Bell at .241.

WATCH BOB, pictured above, with Jimmie Mace in the sulky, is one of the many fine horses entered in the Jaycee Harness Matinee scheduled for April 28 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. The 5-year-old pacer is owned by Arthur and Harley Mace. Proceeds from the annual matinee will go into a grandstand project fund which is being sponsored by local Jaycees.

Celtics Set For Tell-Tale Cage Battle

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics stand at the crossroads tonight in their National Basketball Assn. playoff game with St. Louis.

Boston never has had the lead in the best-of-seven series against the Hawks to date but has managed to rally twice. The teams are locked in a 2-2 standoff.

Bidding for their first championship in the 11-year history of the NBA, favored Boston must make its bid now.

If the Celts lose tonight in friendly Boston Garden, they would be prime candidates for elimination in St. Louis Thursday.

St. Louis can lose tonight and be in a favorable position to tie things up again at home.

Hometown fans hope that improvement in the play of backcourt ace Bob Cousy and rookie pivot sensation Bill Russell will assure a triumph.

The Hawks have been doing the unexpected so far in their determined bid to hustle their way to the top. When the Celtics demonstrated rebounding superiority, St. Louis has answered with great shooting. And when the Celts were shooting their best, the Hawks commanded the backboards.

Bob Pettit of St. Louis is the individual scoring leader with 111 points or a 27.75 average.

Baseball League Being Organized

The Southwestern Ohio Baseball League, composed of teams from this part of the state, needs two more teams to complete its pre-season organization.

Local baseball squads interested in joining the loop are asked to contact Pete Dennewitz, 428 Lillie St., Chillicothe. His phone number is PR-25263.

League games are played on Sunday afternoons on a home and home basis. The final pre-season organizational meeting will be held in the home of Tom Smalley, 1227 S. Main St., on April 28 at 8 p. m.

Ohio Still Top Foal State

10-Year Leadership Noted; Illinois Close

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio is still the nation's leading producer of harness horse foals but Illinois, anchored by rich state-sponsored colt stakes open only to homebred talent, is rapidly closing the gap.

The U. S. Trotting Association announced today that it has registered 670 Ohio-owned foals of 1956, enabling the Buckeye State to run its nation-leading streak to ten consecutive years. Illinois is second on the list with 527 foals.

The margin between the two leaders is narrowing however, since Ohio led in 1955 foals 693 to 481, and in 1954 foals 720 to 410.

New York moved up to third place on the national roster with 376 foals, displacing Indiana which slid to fifth place with 350. Pennsylvania, with 360 foals, climbed from fifth to fourth.

A three-year tabulation of the top ten states follows:

Foals of 1956: Ohio 670; Illinois 527; New York 376; Pennsylvania 360; Indiana 350; Michigan 195; Kentucky 165; California 103; Iowa 89; Virginia 77.

Foals of 1955: Ohio 693; Illinois 481; Indiana 396; New York 361; Pennsylvania 338; Kentucky 297; Michigan 211; California 146; Maryland 95; Iowa 91.

Foals of 1954: Ohio 720; Indiana 410; Illinois 408; New York 338; Pennsylvania 331; Kentucky 287; California 156; Michigan 147; Wisconsin 110; Virginia 90.

Aparicio Named As Chisox Leadoff

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Luis Aparicio, the American League's rookie of 1956, is going to be the Chicago White Sox' leadoff man.

Aparicio has developed the ability to wait out pitchers and as a result is getting more walks, a prime necessity for a leadoff man.

In the first 12 games this spring, Luis had a .429 reach-base average. That included 16 hits in 52 at bats for a .308 average, five walks, one hit by pitched ball and two errors.

From 1942 to 1946 Dartmouth set an intercollegiate hockey record by playing 46 straight games without suffering a defeat.

Notre Dame is Michigan State's oldest basketball rival. They first met in 1908 and have played 73 times.

Dupas Handed Decision In Martinez Tilt

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Foxy Jack Kearns, a shrewd judge of boxing in anybody's book, conceded today Ralph Dupas is "one of the best lightweights in the world," but disagreed with the decision giving the New Orleans dandy his victory over high-ranked welterweight Vince Martinez.

Kearns, who steered Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight title almost 40 years ago, was in Martinez' corner Monday night when the handsome Paterson, N. J., puncher finished second best to Dupas in ten rounds.

But the verdict met with the approval of the great majority of the 10,800 fans.

Martinez opened a deep gash in the corner of Dupas' left eye in the third round.

But Martinez failed to capitalize on the injury and allowed the 21-year-old Dupas, rated sixth among lightweight challengers, to regain his composure in the middle rounds. The quicker Dupas continually beat Martinez to the punch, with most of the attack centering on Martinez' midsection.

Both dished out punishment and each took some good shots in return. But Dupas' aggressiveness and cat-like reflexes paid off in swinging the nod over the 27-year-old New Jersey native.

Judge Lucian Jaubert voted four rounds for each man with two even, but had Dupas ahead on aggressiveness. Judge Phil Gaffney had Dupas ahead six rounds to three with one even and referee Pete Giaruso tabbed Dupas on top 5-4-1.

Gonzales-Parker Set For Match

CLEVELAND (AP)—A match between Pancho Gonzales and Frank Parker will headline six singles matches in the opening round of a three-day professional tennis tournament at Cleveland Arena tomorrow night. Ken Rosewall, latest addition to the pro ranks, will play the winner of the Bobby Riggs-Al Doyle match.

Winner of the Frank Kovacs-Joe Whelan match will be paired with Tony Trabert, former University of Cincinnati athlete.

Plans For Kid Baseball Season Discussed At Organization Meet

According to Charles Waple, recreation director at Ted Lewis Park, plans for the coming Kid baseball program are well underway here.

Initial planning was outlined at a managers meeting held Sunday afternoon in Circleville High School. At present the biggest problem at hand is getting enough managers to lead the many teams expected in this year's competition.

However, recreation director Waple remarked that he expects this problem will be solved by time the season is slated to open, providing more interested fans offer their services.

Much of the discussion at Sunday's meeting was centered around rules and regulations which will govern this year's play. Some of the rules set up are as follows:

* * *

IN GAMES played under the lights, balls which hit or go past light poles will be automatic doubles; in daylight contests, the hitter will be allowed to get as many bases as he can; no profane language will be allowed by players or managers—violation of this ruling will be grounds for forfeit.

No smoking will be allowed on the diamond; only players and managers will be permitted on the playing field during a game.

In the Mosquito League, five innings will be played, six innings will constitute a Little League game and Babe Ruth League contests will go seven innings. In case of rain or darkness, sufficient innings for a game will be: Mosquito League, three innings; Little and Babe Ruth leagues, four innings.

If games are called because of rain or darkness with the score deadlocked, the contests will be resumed at the point where stopped.

Waple and game umpires will decide whether or not the diamond is in suitable condition for all games.

Along with his call for additional managers, Waple expressed hope that at least one interested fan would volunteer to act as official scorekeeper for all games.

Cartier Hangs Up His Ring Gloves

NEW YORK (AP)—From now on Walter Cartier is strictly an actor.

The onetime middleweight contender hung up his gloves today, ending a brief fling in a double career of television acting and boxing.

Handsome Walter announced his retirement from the ring after suffering a deep cut over the right eye Monday night in losing on a third-round technical knockout to Jackie LaBua, East Meadow, N. Y., in a telecast bout.

The 33-year-old New Yorker, who portrays Pfc. Claud Dillingham in Phil Silvers' Sgt. Bilko television show, said, "I just don't have it."

Ohio Grid Pilot Signs With Colts

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bob Shaw, All-America end in 1942 at Ohio State and professional football veteran, was signed Monday as coach of the Baltimore Colts.

The 35-year-old native of Fremont, Ohio, has coached the Cuyahoga Falls High School near Akron for the last two years.

He played for the Rams in Cleveland and Los Angeles, the Chicago Cardinals and Calgary of the Canadian League.

Pro Football Review Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday refused to reconsider its February 25 decision that professional football is subject to anti-trust laws.

Reconsideration was asked by the National Football League and other groups in a petition which said the decision "constitutes a discrimination against professional football and a preferential exemption' of baseball."

Memphis in the Southern Assn., after years of ownership and working agreements with the Chicago White Sox, will work with the Chicago Cubs during 1957.

Former North Carolina swimmer, Buddy Baarcke, coaches the Tar Heel freshman swimmers.

Ohio Grid Pilot Signs With Colts

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bob Shaw, All-America end in 1942 at Ohio State and professional football veteran, was signed Monday as coach of the Baltimore Colts.

The 35-year-old native of Fremont, Ohio, has coached the Cuyahoga Falls High School near Akron for the last two years.

He played for the Rams in Cleveland and Los Angeles, the Chicago Cardinals and Calgary of the Canadian League.

Pro Football Review Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday refused to reconsider its February 25 decision that professional football is subject to anti-trust laws.

Reconsideration was asked by the National Football League and other groups in a petition which said the decision "constitutes a discrimination against professional football and a preferential exemption' of baseball."

Memphis in the Southern Assn., after years of ownership and working agreements with the Chicago White Sox, will work with the Chicago Cubs during 1957.

Former North Carolina swimmer, Buddy Baarcke, coaches the Tar Heel freshman swimmers.

Pitchers May Give Dodger Manager Case Of 'Blues'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Walter Alston of the Brooklyn Dodgers has been singing a confident tune this spring, but the plight of his first-line pitchers could find him whistling the blues.

Not one of Alston's big four — Roger Craig, Don Newcombe, Sal Maglie, and Johnny Podres — has gone nine innings in a grapefruit league game.

Podres, released from the Navy because of a bad back, has managed to stick around for seven innings. Newcombe has gone six three times, Maglie has gone six and Craig has reached five.

But the Dodger skipper maintains "It's not necessary for a man to go nine in these games," and figures his twirlers will be ready for the season opener a week from today.

Craig was bounced in the second inning for a pinch hitter Monday after giving up five runs in the first as the Dodgers bowed to the Milwaukee Braves 8-5 at Oklahoma City.

It was the Braves' fourth consecutive success over the Dodgers and over-all gave them a 6-2-1 record against the defending National League champions.

Ken Lehman absorbed the rest of the Milwaukee pounding while Ray Crone and Bob Trowbridge brought the Braves spring record to 18-8 against major league competition. The Dodgers are 13-15. Charley Neal and Gino Cimoli hit homers for the Brooks.

Elsewhere, Boston's Red Sox ended a six-game losing streak by defeating Pittsburgh 8-7 in 10 innings at Fort Myers, Fla.; Chicago's White Sox shut out St. Louis 3-0 at Charlotte, N.C.; Philadelphia downed Detroit at Clearwater 6-4; the New York Giants edged Cleveland 3-1 in a game held to five innings by rain at Mobile, Ala.; and Baltimore beat Chicago's Cubs 6-5.

Milt Bolling hit a homer in the 10th for Boston's victory.

Left-hander Jack Harshman and reliefer Dixie Howell combined to limit the Cardinals to seven hits.

Ed Bouchee led a 12-hit Phillie attack on Detroit pitchers Paul Foytack and Jack Crimian with a homer, single and double.

Dusty Rhodes got a two-run homer and Foster Castleman a solo for the Giants.

Bob Nieman drove in five Oriole runs, one with a homer.

Illinois Woman Kegler Rolls 300

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Pashoff of Granite City Monday night rolled the first 300 game shot this season by a woman in league competition.

She sandwiched the perfect game in between games of 176 and 195 for a 671 series in a chemical company league.

A bowler for 15 years, Mrs. Pashoff holds a combined 178-average in league play. She bowls four nights a week.

Ann Marshall of Milwaukee previously held high game honors in league play with a 299 game.

AAU Boxing Shows Lack Of Knockouts

BOSTON (AP) — The lack of knockout punchers except in the heavyweight class in the trial rounds was the big surprise of the National AAU Boxing Championships today as the 69th annual competition advanced into the quarterfinal stage.

Only four of 30 bouts failed to go the distance and there were just two clear-cut knockouts in the opening round of the three-day tournament here Monday night.

Heavyweights Lee Williams of Boston and Willie Kimble of Cleveland turned in the kayos, while light heavy Cardell Farmos of Boston and flyweight Cyril Woodland won on TKOs.

Williams, New England AAU titlist defeated in the finals of the recent national Golden Gloves, knocked out De Witt Lee of Buffalo, N. Y., in 1:34 of the third round, while barrel-shaped Kimble put away lanky Reidy Davis of Philadelphia in 12 seconds of the second stanza.

Farmos stopped Ray Ector of Columbus, Ohio, in 1:53 of the opening round of their 178-pound trial, and Woodland got his triumph when Gilbert Yanez of Toledo, Ohio, was unable to answer the bell for the third round.

Infield Troubles Plaguing Indians

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)— Still lacking a third baseman, Kerby Farrell, Cleveland Indians' manager, is keeping a worried eye on first base following the injury of Vic Wertz in Sunday's game with the New York Giants.

Wertz suffered a bruised knee after sliding into catcher Valmy Thomas but is expected back in action in a day or two.

Farrell's problem is who plays first if the 32-year - old Wertz would be forced to the sidelines during the regular season which opens next week.

Pitchers May Give Dodger Manager Case Of 'Blues'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Walter Alston of the Brooklyn Dodgers has been singing a confident tune this spring, but the plight of his first-line pitchers could find him whistling the blues.

Not one of Alston's big four — Roger Craig, Don Newcombe, Sal Maglie, and Johnny Podres — has gone nine innings in a grapefruit league game.

Podres, released from the Navy because of a bad back, has managed to stick around for seven innings. Newcombe has gone six three times, Maglie has gone six and Craig has reached five.

But the Dodger skipper maintains "It's not necessary for a man to go nine in these games," and figures his twirlers will be ready for the season opener a week from today.

Craig was bounced in the second inning for a pinch hitter Monday after giving up five runs in the first as the Dodgers bowed to the Milwaukee Braves 8-5 at Oklahoma City.

It was the Braves' fourth consecutive success over the Dodgers and over-all gave them a 6-2-1 record against the defending National League champions.

Ken Lehman absorbed the rest of the Milwaukee pounding while Ray Crone and Bob Trowbridge brought the Braves spring record to 18-8 against major league competition. The Dodgers are 13-15. Charley Neal and Gino Cimoli hit homers for the Brooks.

Elsewhere, Boston's Red Sox ended a six-game losing streak by defeating Pittsburgh 8-7 in 10 innings at Fort Myers, Fla.; Chicago's White Sox shut out St. Louis 3-0 at Charlotte, N.C.; Philadelphia downed Detroit at Clearwater 6-4; the New York Giants edged Cleveland 3-1 in a game held to five innings by rain at Mobile, Ala.; and Baltimore beat Chicago's Cubs 6-5.

Milt Bolling hit a homer in the 10th for Boston's victory.

Left-hander Jack Harshman and reliefer Dixie Howell combined to limit the Cardinals to seven hits.

Ed Bouchee led a 12-hit Phillie attack on Detroit pitchers Paul Foytack and Jack Crimian with a homer, single and double.

Dusty Rhodes got a two-run homer and Foster Castleman a solo for the Giants.

Bob Nieman drove in five Oriole runs, one with a homer.

Illinois Woman Kegler Rolls 300

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Pashoff of Granite City Monday night rolled the first 300 game shot this season by a woman in league competition.

She sandwiched the perfect game in between games of 176 and 195 for a 671 series in a chemical company league.

A bowler for 15 years, Mrs. Pashoff holds a combined 178-average in league play. She bowls four nights a week.

Ann Marshall of Milwaukee previously held high game honors in league play with a 299 game.

AAU Boxing Shows Lack Of Knockouts

BOSTON (AP) — The lack of knockout punchers except in the heavyweight class in the trial rounds was the big surprise of the National AAU Boxing Championships today as the 69th annual competition advanced into the quarterfinal stage.

Only four of 30 bouts failed to go the distance and there were just two clear-cut knockouts in the opening round of the three-day tournament here Monday night.

Heavyweights Lee Williams of Boston and Willie Kimble of Cleveland turned in the kayos, while light heavy Cardell Farmos of Boston and flyweight Cyril Woodland won on TKOs.

Williams, New England AAU titlist defeated in the finals of the recent national Golden Gloves, knocked out De Witt Lee of Buffalo, N. Y., in 1:34 of the third round, while barrel-shaped Kimble put away lanky Reidy Davis of Philadelphia in 12 seconds of the second stanza.

Farmos stopped Ray Ector of Columbus, Ohio, in 1:53 of the opening round of their 178-pound trial, and Woodland got his triumph when Gilbert Yanez of Toledo, Ohio, was unable to answer the bell for the third round.

Infield Troubles Plaguing Indians

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)— Still lacking a third baseman, Kerby Farrell, Cleveland Indians' manager, is keeping a worried eye on first base following the injury of Vic Wertz in Sunday's game with the New York Giants.

Wertz suffered a bruised knee after sliding into catcher Valmy Thomas but is expected back in action in a day or two.

Farrell's problem is who plays first if the 32-year-old Wertz would be forced to the sidelines during the regular season which opens next week.
